Humor? Amateur Associations Are It, Says Rogers

(Special To The News)

TOLEDO, O., July 21.—That Lawn Tennis Association didn't monkey with Tilden long when they saw he couldn't win, did they? The rules say, "you can write articles, but not on the same day you play." They figure it's too hard on an amateur to write and play the same day. It takes a professional to have that much endurance outside the Maryland Racing Association who barred Harry Sinclair's horses for running on an oiled track.

I don't suppose there is any body of men in America that are as consistent in humor as these amateur associations.

Saw Amelia in Chicago.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Work of clearing up and repairing damage done by the cloudburst of Thursday night is still being rushed in many parts of the city. It will be some time before all of the marks left by the deluge are effaced in various parts of the city.

A light rain was evident this morning, just by way of a change in weather conditions.

Police are still waging an energetic campaign against double parking of autos on the streets and are making good progress. They will be especially vigilant tonight, for Saturday nights are the time when the menace is most noticeable. Look out you don't get a tag.

A violent storm reached parts of Lawrence county, Friday evening about 5 o'clock, blowing over trees here and there, and being accompanied by a large amount of rain. The worst of the storm missed the greater part of New Castle however.

Scout Executive J. Lee Calahan reports that during the heavy storm of Thursday night, lightning struck the steel flag pole at the scout camp. None of the scouts was affected, although it made quite a noise in camp at the time.

Lights burning high up in the addition to the Lawrence Savings and Trust company seven story addition, last night, revealed that the first tenants have moved into the new building. It is expected that many others will soon be following the pioneers.

Announcement that the state highway department is going to replace the small stretch of macadam roadway from the New Castle city line towards East New Castle with concrete, will be received with gratification by motorists who use the New Castle-Ellwood road. The work is to be done this summer.

In addition to the incessant rains, this is also the season of incessant operation of the lawn mowers. Ask anybody who has a fine lawn to keep up and see if it is not the truth!

Today the steam shovel which is digging out Albert street preparatory to paving has started on the second block of its work. Even Thursday's heavy rain did not halt the operations, although they were hampered somewhat. The ground was about of the consistancy of soup Friday, yet the shovel shoveled on and the trucks trucked on.

They speak of firemens' holidays, and postmans' holidays and truck drivers' holidays, but Pa Newc was privileged to witness a police reporter's holiday, that he spent in hanging about the police station. Which goes to prove that adages for the most part, are right.

Reports from Butler indicate that the storm which hit New Castle on Thursday night also vented its fury in that district. About two inches of rain fell in a two hour period a record for many years. Much damage was done.

While Pa Newc was very young, an old Dutchman tried to beat into his head some of the principles of eco-

Hoover Meeting Party Leaders In California

Invites Leaders Of All Factions To His Home In Palo Alto

POLITICAL HATCHET WILL BE BURIED

Senator Johnson Will Take Stump In Behalf Of G. O. P. Nominee

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PALO ALTO, Cal., July 21.—Taking a lesson from a previous Republican nominee for President, as his first political move since getting here, Herbert Hoover has issued invitations to Governor C. C. Young, Senator Hiram W. Johnson and Senator Samuel M. Shortridge to visit him at his home. The trio of California Republican leaders, all having separate followings, have pledged their support to Hoover, but the nominee apparently planned to win their personal good will as well.

This was in sharp contrast to the attitude of Charles Evans Hughes, the Republican nominee in 1916, who stopped at the Senate Hotel with Johnson during that campaign without communicating with the then governor of California. This political oversight aroused Johnson's enmity

Hoover Orders Limitation On Campaign Funds

Nominee Says Campaign Funds Must Be Kept Within Three Million Mark

(International News Service)

PALO ALTO, Cal., July 21.—Herbert Hoover personally ordered a limitation of $3,000,000 upon the Republican campaign fund for the coming presidential election, it was learned here today.

The nominee left instructions with party leaders before he left Washington for his home here that the budget for the coming campaign should be kept within the amount used to elect President Coolidge in 1924. That limit was $3,000,000. The limit was announced in Washington yesterday.

The limitation of the campaign fund, observers here believed, was a further indication that Hoover has taken over the reigns of the party and will continue personally to conduct his campaign. The naming of C. Bascom Slemp, former secretary to President Coolidge, as southern campaign manager, was looked upon as a similar sign post.

BOTH TIN PLATE PLANTS HERE OPERATING OVER NORMAL WEEK; RUNNING 17 TURNS

Beginning today, the Shenango and New Castle plants of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company will operate 17 turns per week, finishing the week's work at four o'clock Saturday afternoon instead of eight a. m., according to an announcement made today by David S. Pyle, general manager of the Shenango plant, and John A. Butler, manager of the New Castle plant.

The order placing the mills on a 17-turn basis puts them not only upon a capacity basis, but is really one turn more than what has usually been considered a capacity basis.

Heretofore, with one or two exceptions, the mills have worked 16 turns per week, starting at midnight Sunday and finishing at eight a. m. on Saturday morning. The present order adds one turn, completing the week's work at four p. m. on Saturday.

The present order is a healthy indication of the condition of the tin plate industry. It will continue indefinitely and seems to guarantee a long run for the local mills.

The order goes into effect today, which means that the week's work just closing will have been one of the ultimate capacity weeks.

Two Hundred Persons Poison Victims At Charitable Picnic

Women And Children At Mission Picnic Near Washington, D. C., Poisoned

Physicians To Investigate Strange Case; Some Are In Serious Condition

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 21.—A special board of physicians and bacteriologists was convened here today to make thorough investigation of the poisoning of more than 200 underprivileged women and children who were stricken on a picnic yesterday, sponsored by the Central Union Mission, a charitable organization.

Preliminary examinations failed to reveal a definite cause for the poisoning, believed to have resulted from food packed in lunch boxes by church women.

Most of the victims recovered at emergency hospital treatment but 14 were still left in the city hospital today. Some were said to be in serious condition.

The poisoning came as the aftermath of an otherwise delightful picnic for the women and children, who were given a chance to escape a street temperature of 100 degrees. All were taken down the Potomac to Marshall Hall picnic grounds on a steamboat.

A few persons were stricken just as the boat was preparing to leave on the return trip in the evening, but most of them did not feel the effects until they were on board. Women and children dropped to the deck of the ship and the captin ordered full speed ahead. A score of ambulances met the steamer at the dock.

Company B Men Arrive At Noon

Mounted Engineers Return From Two Weeks At Mt. Gretna

NEW CASTLE MEN STAND CAMP WELL

Bronzed and hardened after 15 days of intensive training under the boiling sun of Central Pennsylvania, 65 members of Company B, 125th Engineers, Mounted, Pennsylvania National Guard, arrived in New Castle at noon today following their encampment at Mt. Gretna.

The company left Mt. Gretna Friday evening at 8:30. In explaining their late arrival at New Castle, Sergeant Forest L. Florida stated that it was because of a hold-over of several hours at Altoona and another one at Pittsburgh.

During the encampment, John E. Reed of The News force has been acting as second lieutenant, states Sergeant Florida. He will probably be continued in that position.

All the work done at the camp this year by the company was of an engineering nature according to Sergeant Florida. The principal work was the building of bridges and trenches. Last year the company received a course in military science and tactics while in camp.

"During the entire encampment there was not a man from New Castle who was on the sick list," aserted Sergeant Florida. "Although we worked hard, it was worth it, both in experience gained and the fun that we had afterwards.

"Everything in the camp is in perfect condition. The food is excellent and the quarters are of the best. All the members of the company join me in saying that it is a pleasant vacation profitably spent."

RESCUE ATTEMPTS TO FIND 12 IN ARCTIC AT STANDSTILL

(International News Service)

MOSCOW, July 21.—Soviet relief in behalf of the ill-fated Nobile expedition, which has been responsible for nearly all the rescues so far effected, will be at a standstill for a fortnight as the result of official decisions taken today.

In the meantime there are still 12 men missing—six of the members of the Nobile party and the others members of the Amundsen relief group. Prof. Samoyolovich, director of Russian relief aboard the Krassin, wireless from King's Bay that it would require two weeks to make necessary repairs upon the ice breaker. As facilities at King's Bay are inadequate, the Krassin will have to put in at a Norwegian or Swedish port.

Aviator Chuchnovsky was ordered to remain at King's Bay to repair his plane and not to make any attempt to locate the missing Alessandri and Amundsen parties until the Krassin returns.

Chuchnovsky desired to continue the search alone, but the members of the Soviet relief committee considered the risks too great.

Novelist Found; Argued In Vain Against Suicide

Maxwell Bodenheim, Poet And Novelist, Friend Of Girl Suicide, Is Located

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., July 21. — Maxwell Bodenheim, poet and novelist, friend of Miss Virginia Drew, young artist and authoress whose body was found in the Hudson river, was located here today in the artist's colony. Miss Drew was last seen alive leaving the apartment of Mr. Bodenheim, who subsequently disappeared.

Mr. Bodenheim frankly admitted that he went away from New York to avoid "unpleasant publicity."

Argued With Girl

He declared that he argued with Miss Drew until 3 o'clock in the morning of the day she left his New York apartment, trying to dissuade her from taking her life.

Disappointment over her failure to write acceptable verse, coupled with reveries over the mystery of reincarnation, was discovered to have figured in the case, and then it was learned that the girl had talked suicide pact with a novelist friend.

Bodenheim, known in New York's Greenwich village as the "Bohemian of Bohemians," was found in his cottage here, "The Peggy."

"Yes, she was at my apartment Sunday night," he said.

"She's the last person I'll ever befriend, too. I left New York to get away from any publicity in this connection and never thought you'd find

Motor Club Gets Many Members

Six Members Given Awards For Securing 10 Or More New Members

ENTIRE COUNTY IS WELL REPRESENTED

Almost 50 unceasing workers for the New Castle Motor club were present at the meeting which formally closed the drive for additional memberships, and which took place Friday evening in the council chamber of the City building, according to Bernard N. Hanlon, secretary-manager of the club

Six members of the club were given medals for securing ten or more memberships for the club. The list of the men, and the number of memberships they secured, follows:

Ralph W. Bolsinger	29
James K. Loves	12
Fred L. Rents	12
Samuel Huey	10
W. J. Connery	10
Henry Artz	10

Representatives from all over Lawrence county attended the meeting. Aside from the local delegation, there were men present from Bessemer, New Wilmington, New Bedford, the rural parts of Mercer and of Ellwood City

Ed McNeely, an organization man from the Pennsylvania Motor Federation and Ralph W. Bolsinger, chairman of the drive, spoke at the meeting. In the absence of F. S. Hoyt, president of the club, Bernard N. Hanlon acted as chairman.

"Although the drive is officially closed, that does not mean that the work of the motor club is over. Rather, let us feel that this drive is just the beginning of a long continued effort to boost New Castle and to boost the New Castle Motor club, stated Mr. Bolsinger this morning.

"I know the members of the club have caught the vision. I know they see what a good motor club will do for the city. And I know that each citizen of New Castle now knows the untiring work that the American Automobile association does.

"The motor club will grow. It cannot remain dormant. But it is up to every resident of New Castle and Lawrence county to see that it does grow and expand. You, as a motorist, can help in the work. After all, it is for your own good."

Woman Confesses Crimes But Victims Are Missing

(International News Service)

NORRISTOWN, Pa., July 21.—Police of Chester and Montgomery counties today had abandoned their search for the "victims" of Dr. Virginia Alvarez Hussey, beautiful 32 year old Spanish woman, who came into police headquarters here yesterday and announced, hysterically, that she had shot and killed her husband and "the other woman" near her former home at Parkersford.

Authorities are now of the opinion that the woman is suffering from a delusion.

Convinced that the husband, Lindley Hussey, an author, and his alleged paramour, are alive, police today turned their search to Philadelphia. Hussey was arrested last Friday at Ambler, officers learned, on charges of passing $1,600 in worthless checks on the Royersford Trust Company. Constable Morris, who arrested Hussey, said that Mrs. Grace Saveuer, wealthy divorcee, of Ambler, visited Hussey and gave him $1,600 to make good the checks and also furnished $1,500 bail for his release.

Yesterday Mrs. Saveuer telephoned her son, Theobold, 16, and instructed

Near Hurricane Hits South Side

Windows Blown Out Of Storerooms; Other Damage Is Reported

TREES ARE FELLED BY TERRIFIC WIND

Something akin to a small hurricane hit the South Side Friday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, tearing up some trees and telephone poles, tying up traffic, and in some cases, damaging buildings, according to reports at the New Castle police station. Other parts of the city were not affected.

The worst damage occurred in the vicinity of Moravia street, Long avenue and Mahoning avenue, where windows were blown out of store rooms, and some trees and telephone poles fell. Water rushed down Long avenue, temporarily tying up the traffic. A large hole was blown in the roof of the Model Baking Company of West Long avenue. On Lyndall street, three trees were torn up by the roots and now lie across the road.

The entire force of the city street department is working overtime to repair the damage done both from Thursday's and Friday's storms. In a large measure, all the debris in the gutters of the downtown section has been removed.

If necessary, it is stated at the city tool house, the force will be kept at work over Sunday to get the streets of the city back to their normal condition. Every few minutes, new calls come into the street department from all parts of the city. The street commissioner hopes that all damage can be rectified in the near future.

Fifteen Nations Agree To Discuss Outlawing Of War

Masters Of Two-Thirds Of World War Machinery To Talk Over War Abandoning

AGREE TO MEET IN SEPTEMBER

All Nations To Have Right To Adhere To Treaty By Expressing Willingness

By LAWRENCE J. SULLIVAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Fifteen governments, masters of more than two-thirds of all the war machinery in the world, are agreed today upon a first venture in shackling their engines of destruction.

A 700-word treaty renouncing war is the strait-jacket the powers have agreed to slip over the mailed armor of Mars.

So complex was the task of bringing the powers to agreement upon the terms that more than a year has been consumed in the wording of this little scrap of paper which diplomats hope may clog the belching maws of the greatest howitzers.

Standing armies and organized land reserves aggregating more than 3,000,000 men; regular naval forces totaling 500,000 men; approximately 4,000,000 of the world's 6,000,000 tons of fighting vessels—these constitute the military forces of the powers which have formally signified their readiness to sign on the dotted line—"That they condemn recourse to war for the solution of international controversies and renounce it as an instrument of national policy in their relations with one another."

To Meet in September

With the announced acceptance today of Japan and Czecho-Slovakia—the last of the 14 governments—the

Out where the hills challenge one to hike, where nature seems at her best, out where a fellow can loll around, and enjoy himself hugely and rest. English Conduct Elections Best, Says Dr. Pollock

New Castle Man Studies Elections In Europe During Past Year

PLANS TO WRITE NEW BOOK SOON

English elections are the most cleanly conducted of any in the world, according to Dr. James K. Pollock, Jr., who has returned to the United States after a year's intensive research work in Europe. Not only is there less suspicion of the undue use of money in their elections, but the results of such elections are accepted by the people with less questioning than in other countries.

With Mrs. Pollock, Dr. Pollock spent a most unusual year abroad. In England, France and Germany he was present during the elections for the national governing bodies, and also during the organization of the new parliaments. In addition Dr. and Mrs. Pollock visited in Italy, Switzerland, Szecho-Slovakia, Austria and Holland and made some investigations of their political conditions.

Courteously Treated.

Everywhere, he was met with unusual courtesy, he said. As a Fellow of the Social Science Research council, Dr. Pollock had entry to the governmental workings of the various countries and in this way came into close contact with such persons as Lady Astor, Sir John Simons and Premier Baldwin of England; Lausanee, editor of Le Matin in Paris; Calliaux, former minister of finance for France; Tardieu, minister of public works for France; Gustav Stresemann of Germany and a distinguished list of public officials in the other countries.

The German system of elections Dr Pollock found most interesting, with its multi-party system and its proportional representation. The use and abuse of money in elections he found was most apparent in Germany and to a large extent in France, England being the one country most free from it.

During his year's research Dr. Pollock compiled a voluminous list of notes which will later be used in the preparation of some works he has in mind. Particularly will this be true in a volume he expects to write as a further exposition of the use of money in elections. He has one such book to his credit at the present time.

foreign officers of the powers are now in correspondence over the exact date for signing the epochal covenant in Paris, probably in September.

Secretary of State Kellogg is prepared to sail for Europe for the solemn ceremonies as early as mid-August.

"The high contracting parties solemnly declare in the names of their respective peoples that they condemn recourse to war for the solution of international controversies, and renounce it as an instrument of national policy in their dealings with one another," the treaty says in part.

"The high contracting parties agree that the settlement or solution of all disputes or conflicts of whatever nature or of whatever origin they may be, which may arise among them, shall never be sought except by pacific means."

Under the terms of the approved text all other powers may adhere to the treaty simply by declaring their willingness to sign.

The new treaty should form a new capstone in the existing body of international treaty law. It in no way involves, or infringes upon the League of Nations, officials say. It was conceived and negotiated completely independent of the league.

WHY MABEL!

Home gardens in all parts of the city, are in a sadly bedraggled condition this morning. Where the cabbages were, there is a sea of mud, and tomatoes try to live through it. Another place where the heavy rains did damage was on the slopes of the Scottish Rite cathedral lawn. A large patch of the sodding which had recently been placed is now washed away.

Whoever is responsible for the care of the public square this year is deserving of some commendation. The square is now an appealing breathing place in the center of the city. Its nicely kept grassplots have some appeal. The placing of fences around the grass so that pedestrians were obliged to use the sidewalks has had a good effect.

Washington street for a time, about 11 o'clock this morning, looked like the good old days of twenty years ago. An excursion to Cascade park necessitated a large number of street cars for transportation, and some ten or a dozen were progressing within a space of a couple of blocks at one time. Since the day of the auto, the number of train excursions has been greatly diminished, most of the park visitors coming via auto.

Mrs. Hussey told several stories of the "double murder" in the Montgomery country prison. First she said that she had left the bodies beside the road near Parkersford. Later, she said that she had found her husband and his paramour swimming in the Schuylkill river, and shot them after they had come ashore, and that his body "splashed in the water."

Mrs. Hussey's brother told authorities that he was certain his sister's mind had been affected by financial difficulties and her husband's actions. Several letters from her husband, promising a reconciliation, were found on her person.

Hussey is the author of "Odalisque", and is also known as a magazine contributor. Mrs. Hussey is the daughter of a former minister of war of Venezuela, and a graduate of Women's Medical College here.

Ted Streeter Wins Laurels

Ellwood City Youth Makes Good Record In Camp Tagret Practice

WEATHER AT CAMP EXCEEDINGLY HOT

By FRED J. BLAHA,
Special News Correspondent.

FORT WASHINGTON, Md., July 20.—Wednesday and Thursday Company I had its turn on the rifle range.

A little explanation at this point will simplify matters. First we were taught to aim from four positions, prone, sitting, kneeling and standing. Each basic student is allowed 30 rounds of ammunition. The first 15 are shot for practice and the second 15 for record.

The targets are 200 yards away, measuring six by four feet and have a ten inch bull's eye.

A direct hit on the bull's eye counts five and a shot in the first ring counts four. A hit in the outer ring counts two. If all the 15 shots enter the bull's eye the highest possible score, which is 75 is made. To qualify as a marksman a student must make a score of 56. It will be difficult for any company to better the record made by Company I today for there was hardly one person who did not make at least 56.

While on the range each student has a coach who watches him closely and gives him his shells and other essentials. Every precaution is taken to be sure there will be no accidents.

The second year men had a more difficult assignment which is only natural. The "reds" shoot 50 shots in all. Ten are shot in the prone position, five sitting and five kneeling. The possible score is 100 but the scores ranged from 36 to 99. Ted Streeter of Ellwood City ranked high with 94. These rounds are shot in slow succession. Later each "red" was given 10 shells to be shot in 70 seconds and again Streeter led with a score of 49 out of a possible 50. In order to qualify as sharpshooter each student must have scored 84 out of a possible 100.

Wherever there is a range there is an alibi squad, composed of those fellows who blame their low score on the rifle.

Sam Tieche of New Castle said that the fellow at the target jerked it just as he pulled the trigger. Of course, we know he didn't mean it. At any rate, he is a marksman now, as is Jim Beadle, who thought he was riding a mule instead of shooting a rifle, because the kick was terrible. Gilmore Smith is "all in" as a result of the day's work. No wonder, for it is a man's job. Russell Johnston is sporting an "almost" black eye, where the rifle bumped him. Ferrante of Wampum probably had the most fun out of it.

Many of the fellows have been receiving packages from home, and it sure is a treat to taste some home-made candy. One box lasts about a minute. So if any of you folks back home have a friend in camp, you know he would enjoy a little of that fudge. One fellow thought he would save his for a later date, but when the time came there just wasn't any. He forgot to dish it out among his buddies, so they helped themselves.

Down here at camp everyone is your buddy, and you soon become one large group of pals, disregarding the keen competition between companies. For some fellows this is hard to learn, but it soon becomes a habit with them.

The weather has been very warm, ranging from 110 to 118 degrees. The only time it is comfortable is when a fellow is taking a dip. New diving boards are being installed and a 10-foot tower is being constructed for those who enjoy high diving.

me here. Still there's nothing to hide, only its mighty unpleasant.

Criticised Work

"Two or three weeks ago I first heard of Virginia Drew. I got a letter from her in which she asked me to look over some verses she had written. She wanted to know frankly if they were good or bad.

"She gave me her 'phone number in the letter and I called her up. She begged to be allowed to call at my apartment, bringing the verses. So she came. They were not a bit artistic and I was forced to tell her so. She asked for frankness.

"She left very much disappointed. Then last Sunday night she appeared again. She burst into my apartment, saying, in a most matter of fact tone, that she was going to kill "herself" because of her disappointment over my criticism of the verses and her home conditions.

"'I'm not going to carry on any longer,' was what she said. I argued with her until I was black in the face, trying to persuade her it was better to carry on, that she could give up verse and devote her talents to music, painting or something else artistic."

"Why, I argued with her from eight in the evening until three in the morning trying to talk her out of suicide, and I thought I succeeded. When she left, I walked with her along 45th street, New York, and finally got her promise to go on living and make the best of things. I thought she went to a train.

"I went back to the hotel where my apartment is. The next day the clerk told me a man had called, flashed a badge of the secret service, said he was a brother of Miss Drew and hinted at suicide.

I packed up and got out of town to avoid publicity. I had nothing to do with her death. Unfortunately she took my criticism to heart. She's the last I'll ever befriend."

A Friend Tells Story

According to word from New York, Carolyn Novotny, close friend of the dead girl, Miss Drew had completed two manuscripts on theology and reincarnation. These had been sent to a publisher and returned, unaccepted, but in telling of these failures the girl told her friend:

"I've met a literary light and he has promised to help me. I am so happy because I'm having some good luck at last."

Then several days later, Virginia is said to have telephoned Carolyn again to say: "We've entered into a suicide pact."

Virginia had told her parents of her "Literary Light" and had given her mother his name only last Sunday. That was the day she was last at home. Her father searched hospitals for three days before her body was found in the Hudson river and identified by him.

General Obregon's funeral train, en route to Huatabampo, Sonora, was delayed because a tunnel through which it had to pass had been destroyed several months ago. The body was carried over the mountain to the other end of the tunnel, where another special train was waiting.

Funeral Tomorrow

The late leader probably will be buried tomorrow at Huatabampo. Mexico's traditional tribute to her honored dead, a crown of porcelain, will mark his grave.

Bowed down by grief, Senora Obregon, the late president-elect's widow, and their seven young children, are waiting the arrival of the funeral train.

Fisher Brothers Will Incorporate

New Castle Is Center For Big Chain Store And Manufacturing Business

CAPITALIZATION TO BE OVER MILLION

Announcement is made today by Fisher Brothers of this city of plans for incorporation of their chain store and manufacturing business. It is proposed that the corporation be chartered by the state of Pennsylvania, application to that end having been filed with the secretary of the commonwealth at Harrisburg for hearing on July 25, 1928.

The incorporators are Michael Fisher, Edward I. Fisher and Daniel Fisher, the three brothers who originally founded their business in New Castle in June, 1914, and who have conducted it to date as a partnership. The Fisher Brothers reside in New Castle and were born and raised here.

At the present time retail stores are conducted at Cleveland, Warren and Akron,in the state of Ohio, two stores being maintained at Akron, and in Erie, McKeesport, Braddock, Pittsburgh, Monnessen and New Castle, in the state of Pennsylvania, two stores being maintained in New Castle.

The firm also owns and operates the Buckeye Garmen Manufacturing Company, which is located on the Butler road in Shenango township, this county, just outside of the New Castle city limits.

"The Buckeye" manufactures shirts, caps, overalls, pants, neckties and other articles of wearing apparel, practically the entire output of this plant being sold through the firm's chain of stores. Chief lines of merchandising carried in the retail stores are men's furnishings, boys' furnishings and clothing, and some women's wear.

Orville Brown, attorney for Fisher Brothers, stated today that the proposed corporation will include both the retail stores and the Buckeye Garment Manufacturing Company, and that the main office of the corporation will be maintained in the city of New Castle, as heretofore.

Total capitalization for the proposed corporation will be in excess of one million dollars, details of which are to be announced later.

and, when California went Democratic that fall giving Woodrow Wilson his margin of victory, many political seers blame the Republican defeat on Hughes' "faux pas".

Hoover Not Napping

Hoover, noted for his ability as an organizer, made no such mistake.

Before a famous western sunset had faded into twilight on his first day on California soil as the Republican nominee, Hoover had arranged to invite Johnson, Shortridge and Young to his home for conferences on ways and means of keeping the state safely in the Republican column. All three, it was said, will take the stump for him as a result of the conferences.

Governor Young's purpose as a guest in the Hoover home today was to pay his respects and to express in person his condolences to the Republican nominee and Mrs. Hoover to the loss of her father, Charles D. Henry. There may be no discussion of politics but the invitation to Young and his acceptance will bring the nominee and governor into intimate and personal contact. It was said Young will go upon the stump to boom the Hoover cause here and in adjoining states.

Senator Johnson sometimes termed a Hoover foe in Washington last winter will be invited to call early next week. These arrangements were going forward today. Shortridge will follow Johnson.

Bury Political Hatchet

The burying of the political "hatchet" between Hoover and Johnson will mark but another step in the nominees national plan of conciliation and consolidation. Since his nomination, Hoover has chosen one opponent, Senator Charles Curtis, as his running mate while winning from the deposed vice-president, Charles G. Dawes, a promise to take the stump for him.

Before leaving Washington he leaned heavily upon the political advice of Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, another opponent, with the result that the Hoosier Czar will take the stump too. Then he declared Charles D. Hilles, who fought him at Kansas City, the Republican boss of New York thus conciliating another foe. Now Johnson is within the fold.

The California senator, it was learned on good authority, will campaign for Hoover. Johnson will support the nominee it was said because Hoover favors the Boulder Dam project and has a keen realization of western problems. In all probability, Johnson will campaign the mountain states and may even tour clear to east in behalf of Hoover before the campaign ends. Thus in five weeks, Hoover won over Curtis, Dawes, Watson, Hilles and Johnson.

Aside from Governor Young's visit, Hoover will remain in seclusion today, his return home was clouded with sorrow due to the death of his father-in-law.

HOOVER ROUNDING UP THE GRAIN BELT

IT IS coming—the capture of the grain belt states by Herbert Hoover. We were convinced that it would. During his passage through the mid-West the Republican candidate has had opportunity to confer with many leaders. He has discussed with them the farm problem and, unless we omit Governor McMullin of Nebraska, who is still a bit shy at accepting Hoover plans for solving a big problem, he has been received with enthusiasm.

Governor McMullin, it will be remembered, was bitterly opposed to Hoover; was strong in his advocacy of Frank O. Lowden and the McNary-Haugen bill, and was the inventor of the scheme to induce 100,000 farmers to march on Kansas City, a movement which resulted in a gathering of only a few hundred, says a metropolitan daily. Senator McNary has turned in for Hoover and is entirely satisfied with his attitude toward the farmers. The Governor of Nebraska is waiting for the Hoover speech of acceptance before declaring himself outright, but that he will eventually join the Nebraskans generally in their support of the secretary of commerce we do not doubt.

For Hoover has an appeal that is difficult to withstand. Governor Hammill of Iowa, for instance, was as sturdy an opponent of the convention's choice as was McMullin, but after a conference with him on the train he expressed himself as delighted. He recognizes that Hoover is a real friend of the farmer; has ideas of great value; is committed to practical legislation. "I can speak with knowledge that is specific," he declares. "Mr. Hoover is going to make farm relief the first principle of the administration. The farmers are going to have faith in him and in his programme." And Hammill hurried away from Council Bluffs to Des Moines by airplane to inform the Republican state convention of his conviction that Hoover is just the man for president. He did it with success, for the convention by resolution indorsed the convention platform and pledged support to its candidates. And this, too, in face of the fact that only a day or two previously the Farm Belt committee had praised the Democratic plank.

During the campaign for delegates to Kansas City opposition to Hoover had been intensified by Democratic propaganda and by farm politicians who have thrived upon agitation. This opposition took the form of poisining the minds of farmers. They were told that Hoover was an open enemy of farm relief. Of course all this was pure fiction, for the record of Herbert Hoover proves precisely the reverse. Now that poison is no longer a campaign weapon except as it may be resorted to by Democrats of the Jim Reed sort, there will be opportunity for the truth to be heard. And the truth is that if Herbert Hoover can not lead the farmers out of the wilderness of doubt and into the land of promise, then no one can.

Governor Hammill is of that belief. Governor McMullin will be when he has time to overcome his prejudices. The grain states are lining up. They are normally Republican, and there is every reason to anticipate that they will remain so next November. As the solver of industrial problems Hoover is without a peer.

IGNORING SIGNALS

A GREAT hotel owner once told his employes that the customer was always right. In time this became one of the traditions of the institution.

Although this is a fine rule, it would not work well today in directing traffic. If every traffic officer would agree that the pedestrian is always right, it would be a sorry world for the motorists.

Traffic signals were invented to make traffic more efficient. They can do so only when properly obeyed. The careful motorist obeys them cheerfully, the reckless automobilist because he has to. With the pedestrians there seems to be a different attitude in regard to obeying the traffic lights. In most cities, large and small, it seems to be the popular pastime of both motorists and pedestrians to "beat the lights." This is not so bad when nothing is coming in either direction, but on a busy Saturday evening, it is not only hazardous for the pedestrians, but it is nerve-racking for the motorist.

Some drivers, rather than move toward a pedestrian who has crossed against the semaphore light will relinquish his right to proceed. Others will take a chance to crowd through and there will be accidents and narrow escapes. Some of the larger cities have adopted stringent rules against jay-walking. They are to be commended. Its a step in the right direction.

We have a leisure class in America, but usually it is called a sex.

Dear lady, it is easy to boss a husband, but impossible to respect the kind you can boss.

The optimist observes the silver lining of clouds; the pessimist looks at his brake linings.

Another good test of will power is to be ashamed to smoke in bed and to want a smoke at 7 o'clock Sunday morning.

LET CALLAHAN DO IT!

Egbert (proudly)—Yes, sir, I sure did cure my wife of back-seat driving.

Albert (doubtfully)—Yeah?

Egbert—Yeah. Th' last time she tried to bawl me out f'r tryin' to beat th' red, I stopped right alongside th' cop—an' he only listened a minute before he pinched her f'r inpersonat-'n' an officer!

IMPERIAL.

It gives some men a great deal of pleasure to look squarely at a "Positively no checks cashed" sign and ask the hotel clerk to cash a check for them.

As a rule "Anti" makes more noise than the real thing.

We find that picking potato bugs really seems to make them more plentiful. We tried that old-fashioned method but had to resort to the more brutal method of feeding the hungry bugs a potion and they dropped off the vines instead of getting an excursion to the disposal plant, where so many queer things turn up finally.

Man's way is to crowd too much work on the human stomach and then kick if it falls down.

A lady at Greensburg, Pa., wants a divorce because her husband left her the same day they were married. She has been waiting for some time for him to come back, so she probably thinks it's time to try something else. No doubt many would like to know why he left so soon, but she does not say.

There is no average man in the opinion of the wife. He is either a hero or a low brow.

Mr. Hoover knows more about farming in a minute than Al Smith will ever know. Smith knows all about the sidewalks of New York, but Hoover has been a farmer and he knows what a farmer ought to have and what he can get. Smith don't know either of those things.

No president of Mexico was ever as popular as Gen. Obregon or had as many enemies. Funny thing about being popular, you have to have a lot o' enemies also. The enemies are the jealous bozos.

We know some people who would make more money and be able to pay their debts if they would confine their efforts to their own affairs and not dabble in things that do not effect or concern them—but you can't tell 'em anything.

We think some one should try and patent a water-proof wrist watch for those who dip their toast into their coffee.

So far this year. 106 miles of hard roads have been made in Pennsylvania. The state also employes 8,259 men to keep the roads in good shape. Roads make a lot of business we would not otherwise have.

About the only use they have for stone walls in Mexico is for to stand somebody up against 'til the firing squad comes.

While it is true that the term of president of Mexico is six years there have been twelve presidents of one sort or another in that country since 1911. If a man is not killed while running for the office of president of that unenlightened land he gets it soon after he takes the office. You have to be unpopular also in Mexico and have a lot of friends before you can be elected president.

A Youngstown man who pays an income tax of $57,000 a year is against the Volstead Law. It seems to us that a man who makes enough coin to have to pay that amount of tax could get about all the "good stuff" he wants even now.

It's the fellows who get married on the money they wish they had who later sit back and wonder what all the rush was about.

A local chap was noticed going down street the other day, and when he reached a crossing he stretched out his arm, and as he was walking it looked sort of queer. When he was asked why he made no secret of it and said, "It's all I have left of my motor car."

Mr. Hoover will be dry in his coming speech of acceptance. This is no sign, however, that his speech will be dry. Our language sure is funny.

Two burglars rode galloping horses in a raid in Pottstown, Pa., a few nights ago. They must have just heard about Jesse James. So many crooks get along so well these days without riding anything.

Why does a good doctor ask you about the first thing when you are ailing if you smoke, and how much? He knows.

A brother of the late Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania, but who is now living in Colorado, where he has been prominent as a Republican, declares he will be for Al Smith. At least he says he will be for Smith if Hoover does not come out for a modification of the Volstead act. Penrose is going to be for Smith. Hoover is not a jay.

THE DAILY ONCE OVER

When you are tempted to place yourself on a higher level than others it might be well to analyze your reasons.

What have you in the way of mental developments or achievement that makes you feel superior?

Wealthy parents and family standings cannot be accredited to you.

If you have advanced and made the most of your environment and your things to which you can point with pride.

But if you have not progressed systematically you ought to be ashamed.

The person who has been lifted to honorable position may be able to keep it.

The person who has lifted himself is the one who should be elated.

It has meant a struggle, and denotes brains put to good use.

To have an ideal and constantly make it finer and higher is the way to grow and broaden with the years.

Striving for the best as viewpoint unfolds, arouses to greater effort and higher achievement.

The reason so much red tape is used in getting a passport to visit Europe is not because the trouble will be getting into some foreign country, but the rub is in getting back into this country. That's the reason so many people are particular about not having any slip-up. Not getting back into this country after touring Europe will be something fierce!

If you lack the capabilities or opportunities of doing a good deed, you are still doing much for the World if you refrain from committing a wrong act.

Poverty many times is merely a state of mind, caused by the neighbor's new car, or the having of something by some one else, that you cannot understand how they can afford. Perhaps they cannot afford, but that doesn't satisfy your frame of mind. You insist on being poor, just because you think that under the circumstances that is the thing to do.

John McSparran, who has had some experience in running for office in Pennsylvania as a Democrat, says Smith will be defeated if he does not drop his fight for modification of the Volstead act. McSparran lives at Lancaster, Pa., where they never did have soda fountains until the Volstead act came, and they even wear tan shoes there now.

A 32-acre truck farm near Danville, Virginia, uses electric lights to check the ravages of tomato worm moths. On each acre three traps filled with kerosene are placed six inches under lights strung 10 feet above the ground. When the moths yield to their foolish impulse to fly into a flame they hit the lights and fall into the kerosene. Before the traps were set the moths got away with half the tomato crop. The prevention equipment cost $900, and saves from $2,000 to $4,000 a year.

A monument on the Argentine-Chilean boundary line in South America, dedicated on March 13, 1904, stands as a perpetual symbol of peace, not only to that continent, but to the whole world. It is a statue of Christ holding a cross in His left hand, with His right hand pointed to the skies. It is known as "The Christ of the Andes." A bronze tablet on the granite base bears this inscription: "Sooner shall these mountains and Chile break the peace to which they have pledged themselves at the feet of Christ the Redeemer."

In the early days of the World War the officer in charge of a British post, deep in the heart of Africa, received a wireless message from his chief: "War declared. Arrest all enemy aliens in your district."

A few days later the chief received this communication:

"Have arrested seven Germans, three Belgians, four Spaniards, five Frenchmen, a couple of Swedes, an Argentine, and an American. Please inform me whom we are at war with."

Imperial Business.
Hoover's Health.

She Met the Gloul.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE (Copyright, 1928, by N. Y. American, Inc.)

In his new book Trotzky says Imperialists of every nation will force a war on Russia because capitalist nations feel they must crush Soviet Russia.

They don't feel that way. Big Imperialism is really "big business." Big business, engaged in developing industry and making money, knows that war doesn't pay, and doesn't want any war with Russia, especially. Fighting Russia is like fighting a feather bed. The deeper you sink, the more you choke.

Imperialistic big business will sit quietly and watch Russian theorists fight each other—as when they threw out Trotzky.

Coolidge warned Hoover against overwork, urging him to watch his health. The writer warns Mr. Hoover against fast eating.

As a skillful engineer he would not allow any subordinate to treat a machine as he, Mr. Hoover, treats his own body.

His mind is working constantly. He eats absent-mindedly, in a hurry, never ceasing concentrated mental work.

In short, he lives as the late E. H. Harriman used to live. And only years of active outdoor life have saved him. When Harriman went to see the German doctors, they said if he had eaten slowly, instead of eating his luncheon on his desk while he worked, and especially if he had taken light beer with his meals, to relax, he would have lived many years longer.

Herbert Hoover won't take light beer. Perhaps the German doctors were wrong about that, anyhow. But he will live longer, if he can be persuaded to eat more slowly and stop concentrated thinking, at least during meals.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., most generously, has given $2,000,000 for students' buildings in Paris, in the new "University City," built on the site of the old Paris wall.

In the days when Abelard lectured at the Paris University, eager students climbed at night to tall steeples and there, away from street shadows, read their books by moonlight.

They heard lectures before daybreak in ice cold stone rooms, their half-dozen fingers writing painfully.

Education is made easier.

Miss Katherine Locke, of Youngstown, O., traveled miles and miles over the sands of Sahara thinking the sun would bring back her voice that she lost. IT DID.

She visited the Gloul of Marakesh, if you know who he is, in a dwelling 3,000 years old in the Atlas Mountains. The Gloul probably knows as little about us as we know about him.

More interesting to many Americans, Miss Locke saw at Timbuktu, pens where American slavers once bought slaves from native chiefs.

Young men, playing jazz music in night clubs now, would be amazed to see those pens where their ancestors once stopped on the way to America. They would bless the slave traders that brought the ancestors here. We never know what it for our good.

At Pontiac, General Motors authorities meet to discuss development of transportation by trucks, truck production and sale.

Development of motor trucks means economy and labor-saving for farmers.

It means greater efficiency for every branch of industry, and will free horses from tasks fit only for machines.

Mr. Sarcovitch of the Macedonian Revolutionary committee, commits murders wholesale and ruthlessly. Macedonians dislike Serbians. Sarcovitch locked ten Serbians, including four gerdarmes, in a hut, and burned them all alive.

The Serbian government offers a reward of 1,000,000 dinars for the Macedonian bandit.

Nothing succeeds like success—with horses or men. Felstead won the Derby, the betting 30 to 1 against him. Before the race you could have bought the horse, probably, for $20,000. Now his owner refuses $500,000 offered by an American.

A TEACHER SPEAKS.

The flowers on my desk mean a great deal to me—
Brought in tight little bunches,
In inartistic childish fists;
But with love's artistry on each small face,
Brought "to please teacher."

They grew in places strange to me these many years—
Home gardens, quiet yards,
Where Contentment, Industry and Peace
Make a place worthy of their presence,
"Put them in water dear."

A splash of color in the dingy school room—
A fragrance, an assurance that God lives,
The loving thought of children
True and simple. These things they mean—
The flowers on my desk.

ONE FEATHER

Two men had put up at a roadside inn for a night and were told they would have to share a bed.

"But you will be very comfortable," said the landlord. "The mattress is a feather one."

Early next morning one of the men woke the other.

"Change places," he said; "it's my turn to lie on the feather."

Dr. Crane's Editorial

WORK

According to accepted traditions, work was a curse pronounced upon man by the deity when man was expelled from the Garden of Eden.

If this is true, then it is true that the curse of God is better than the blessing of man.

For there can hardly be any doubt that working for one's bread and butter and shelter is about the best thing that ever happened to a man.

Suppose all the teeming millions in New York were idle, that they had nothing to do but amuse themselves, it would not be a week before the city was burned down. It is the fact that most of us have to put in a certain number of hours a day in earning our livelihood that keeps us sane.

The sanest thing on earth is work. Men who devote their time to imagining, to theology, to philosophy, or to other speculations are fertile soil to all kinds of disorder. It is men who have to work that are the flywheel of every nation. As a rule they want things to remain as they are.

And as a rule they are the bulwark of morality. Crime news and divorce court scandals originate largely in the idle classes. Chesterton has said that when a man puts in ten hours a day at street car driving he is not likely to be tangled up with the wife of some one else. He hasn't time even for his own wife.

The workers are the security of a country and the best guarantee of that country's prosperity.

The greatest menace of militarism is that a large body of men are kept in comparative idleness. If the millions under arms in Europe could be disbanded and go to work it would be the best insurance of peace.

Workers as a rule are not interested in fighting.

Of course there is excess in everything. There are men who continue at work as a sort of obsession, and who take no vacation. Ordinarily they break down.

All work should be tempered with play, but play is the condiment of life. When there is too much salt and pepper the meat is spoiled. The main part of a man's days should be spent in useful employment, and by useful I mean the kind of work the world is willing to pay for. The advantage of pay being not that it enables a man after a while to quit

NO FREEDOM

Royalty with all its privileges can't be free. The Prince of Wales can't do as he pleases. Kings and queens are hedged about with restrictions. The Prince of Wales has promised that he will not fly in his airplane alone. Even after he has won his pilot's certificate he must always be accompanied. They are not royal personages alone who suffer. It is a question if there is not more freedom in poverty than in riches. Wealth may be a burden. Most of us would say, however, that our shoulders are strong enough for it.

THE CITY TO COME

Cleveland, one of the greatest American cities, plans to spend 30 millions or more building subways to care for its growing traffic. This is good business and good vision. Thinking citizens all realize that cities of the future—twice as large as they are now—must be different from today's cities. But we are slow to get going. We put off too much for the coming generation. We are not doing our part. We must begin to dig now if we are to make tomorrow's roads broad and straight.

BEAUTY AND DUMBELLS

There is no such thing as a beautiful dumb-bell. So says Natalie Thurston, addressing the New York Society of Beauticians. Perhaps you didn't know there was such a thing as a society of beauticians. The realm of the highbrow has been spreading rapidly in the past few years. The undertakers began the movement when they elevated themselves into morticians. We shall next have cookicians and waiticians for waitresses. Well, anyway this authority says there is no beauty without brains. Any man knows better. And nobody is worrying about that.

A GOOD BRAIN

A Boulder, Colo., girl, 14 years old, will enter the University of Colorado next fall. Many will say her parents are all wrong to let her go to college before she is older. Let's not be too sure about that. The brain is a much better piece of work than we generally give it credit for being. It is rarely overworked. Few of us realize its possibilities. Most people have lazy brains. Perhaps this little girl only gives an example of what the normal brain is capable of doing.

THE VANISHED PIGEON FANCIER

Who raises tumbler pigeons now?
Who is the fan-tail boy today?
Who keeps the coop within a mow
Where pouters strut their lordly way?
This boyhood world I look upon
Is not like mine of long ago,
I ask these youngsters and not one
Can tell me what I used to know.

When I was romping round the place
To every stranger I could tell
What bright-eyed boy with smiling face
Had tumbler pigeons he would sell.
And should the fan-tail he prefer
Or did he wish the pouter breed
I knew the backyards where they were.
But boyhood now seems strange indeed.

That lad of mine has never seen
A tumbler drooping through the air,
His hobby is a swift machine,
With which to tinker and repair.
The barns are gone. The sheds are now
But shelters for a motor car.
Strangely the times have changed somehow,
Vanished the pigeon fanciers are!

Perhaps along the country side
Some youngster guards his fan-tails still,
And looks upon his birds with pride
As on the roof they coo and bill.
Somewhere a pouter fancier dwells
And dreams of ribbons at the show,
But here in the town we live in cells
And all the pigeons had to go.

MINES ON WHEELS

Kansas City is to have a steel mill, according to recent news stories. There are no large deposits of iron ore near Kansas City, but this circumstance has not discouraged the enterprising Western business men who think the great railroad center of the Southwest needs a steel mill.

The Kansas City steel mill will get its raw materials out of discarded automobiles. There is an enormous accumulation of good scrap and iron in the back yards of western Americans, and along the city dumps and country roadsides. Kansas City's new steel plant will be a magnet to draw this good steel into the crucible.

The scrapped automobiles will emerge in the form of new steel plates and bars, and these will be made up into farm machinery by other factories.

This is just one example of what a city can do toward making itself important and useful. Since there are no iron mines near Kansas City, the enterprising citizens of that town will take advantage of the unrecognized mines that are going about on rubber tires, or rusting away in heaps after closing lives of usefulness. This big city couldn't move to the steel supply, but it has found that the steel isn't all in the ground by any means. It is runnings about the country, waiting for somebody to melt it down and make it new again.

Akron, Ohio, is the world's best example of a city that was built upon enterprise and determination to disregard the source of supply as a determining factor in a city's growth.

Akron was built on rubber. It is just as far from a rubber tree as any town in the world, I suppose. It isn't even a seaport to which the rubber boats make their way by force of geographical circumstances. But the men who started the rubber business in Ohio had sufficient enterprise to build the business in their own town and then hold it there.

Watch some comparatively unknown town blossom out as the center of airplane manufacturing. Here is a business that can be built without much regard to tidewater and freight facilities. Of course, the airplane town will have to have good railroads and some little water and some level ground. But there are a thousand towns in this country with all of these assets.

After all, what makes a town is character and enterprise, and if your chief business men have a goodly supply of these assets, the holding of advantage is not difficult. And almost everytown has its chance at one time or another. The town that lacks leadership in character and enterprise allows some other town to take its chance away from it, for there is great competition in this business of building cities.

Thousands Gather In Sonora To Pay Obregon Tribute

Political Leaders And Mexicans In All Walks Of Life Sorrow For Late General

WILL BE BURIED BESIDE MOTHER

Obregon's Estate Is Said To Be Small; Widow Still Under Physician's Care

(International News Service)

NAVOJOA, Sonora, Mexico, July 21.—Silent and grief stricken, Mexican political leaders and officials, peons and members of the Yaqui and Mayo Indian tribes were gathered here today for the funeral services for General Alvaro Obregon, killed by an assassin's bullet.

In accordance wtih Obregon's will, his body will be buried beside his mother's grave at Huatabampo, 22 miles southwest of here.

The will, which was brief, said in part:

"I wish my funeral to be held without ostentation and that my debts be paid first of all, with all I own, using if necessary the small patrimony left to my children."

General Obregon's estate is generally believd to be small, although definite figures regarding its size were not available.

How many a divorce trouble would be avoided if both man and woman were economically independent.

It was not a bad idea of the Jews of old to instruct their children in some useful trade. The best life insurance policy that a man can leave his family is to have them all so trained that they can make their own way in the world.

It is doubted that the man with the hoe, the laborer, should be the object of so much sentimental pity. For after all the man who knows how to use his hoe has a greater prospect of happiness in this world than the man that is left an endowment of a million dollars.

Minstrel Show At Scout Camp

New Delegation Of Scouts To Go To Camp On Next Monday

Minstrel shows can be held most anywhere, but one of the least expected places which one could see such a show would be at a Boy Scout camp. Yet a show was held Friday evening in the auditorium at Camp John M. Phillips, Lawrence county's Boy Scout camp on the banks of the Slippery Rock creek.

And a show it was, replete with end men, singers, hoofers, jazz artists and preachers. It was arranged for by Herman Noble and Jack Hulme.

Inspection Friday morning was won by hut 8 of the Dan Boone stockade, and the high point scorer was Fred Wettich with 155 honor points. Guff Moore placed second with 145 points. During the week, Wettich scored 605 points and Tom Ridgers, his nearest competitor, made 600 points.

Bob Swetzer passed second class signalling, and John Bartley passed first class signalling. Following are the merit badges which were awarded: Carpentry, Fred Wettich; camping, Clyde Shannon; physical development, H. Clyde and B. Kennedy; athletics, Jim Ullom; public health, G. Moore; athletics, D. McIlwain. The scalp of Runner was given to Leicht, while Stevenson got the Sagamore, Walker the Sachem, Farver the Sachem, and that of Grand Sachem was given to Wettich.

The Indians were forced to move out of the village because of the rain. Camp Director LeRoy Norton states that this has been a very successful period. About 125 scouts will come to the camp Monday.

COAL OPERATOR READY TO TALK

John H. Jones Of Bertha Consumers Coal Company Willing To Confer With Miners

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 21.—"I am glad to meet business men, and this includes labor officials, and talk things over with them."

This was the statement made by John H. Jones, president and receiver of the Bertha-Consumers Coal company, today with regard to the proposed conference between representatives of the United Mine Workers of American and coal operators to negotiate for new wage agreements made possible through a recent decision of the policy committee of the union in a meeting in Indianapolis.

Jones did not indicate, however, whether he or other officials of his company would attend the union's proposed conference.

"The company is in the hands of the receivers," Jones stated, "and whether or no we will negotiate with the union, depends entirely upon the receivers."

Report Resignation

A report that Horace F. Baker, president of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal company, has tendered his resignation as head of the concern, was unconfirmed today due to Baker's absence from the city. Denial of any knowledge of the reported resignation was made at his offices today.

In union circles, it was believed, that if the report of Baker's resignation was true, it has been largely responsible for the neutral attitude of the company with regard to the union pending the change of administration.

The policy committee of District No. 5, U. M. W. meets here Monday to determine a basic wage scale upon which they will approach the operators.

How many more may have met death in the conduct of the liquor business in Chicago and vicinity cannot be definitely known. No count is made of those who were quietly poisoned by so-called whiskey. We are paying a fat price for the experiment of prohibition. It may be worth it. Our children's children will be the ones to decide that.

Hennessey-Lott Defeat Italians In Doubles Play

American Tennis Team Enters Challenge Round With France For Davis Cup

STRAIGHT SETS DECIDE MATCH

(International News Service)

PARIS, July 21.—Still smarting under the sting of Bill Tilden's summary dismissal from its ranks, the American team today swept on into the challenge round with France by scoring its third and conclusive victory over Italy in the inter-zone finals of the Davis cup series. Johnny Hennessey, Indianapolis, and George Lott, Chicago, teaming perfectly, won the doubles match, which decided the final round, from Baron De Morpurgo and G. Gaslini, in the same straight set style that featured America's singles victories yesterday. The scores of today's match were 6-3, 6-1, 6-2.

The simplicity of the Americans' victory would have been somewhat startling had it not been that it was almost ordained by the ease of their triumphs in the singles twenty-four hours earlier Even with Tilden leading the charge against them, the Italians had been expected to furnish stern opposition. But, with Tilden declared out on a technicality that found only disfavor with his team mates, the Americans became fairly inspired and brushed all opposition aside in their ruthless desire to win and obtain satisfaction for the fate of their ex-leader.

Few victories have been so easily gained in an inter-zone final. In fact, a three-match triumph without the loss of a set and the fact that only one of these sets were carried into extra games may constitute an inter-zone-record. The performance, greeted heartily by a small gallery, sent the Americans into the challenge round with France next week with heightened hopes of making more than a creditable showing.

High School Girl Kidnaping Victim; Police In Search

Belle Vernon Girl Is Believed Lured From Home By Kidnap Gang

(International News Service)

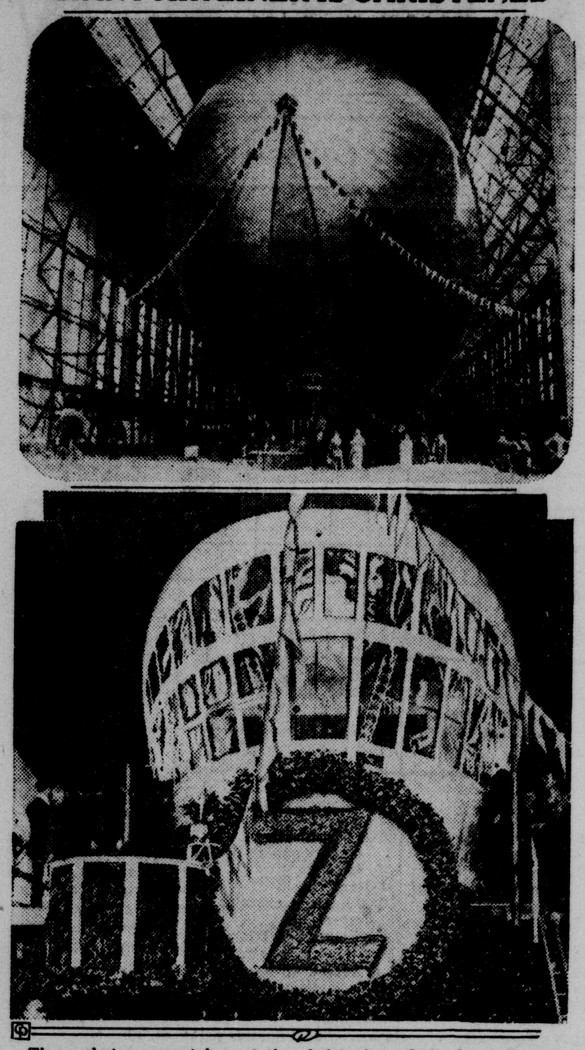

BELLE VERNON, Pa., July 21.—Kidnapers who are believed to have lured away Lucinda Boyce, 15-year-old Belle Vernon high school girl, were sought today by police throughout the Monongahela valley.

Confirmation for a theory of kidnaping was found when police learned that men in a sport automobile trailed the girl down the main street of Belle Vernon last Tuesday, the day she disappeared.

According to the girl's widowed mother, Mrs. Mary Boyce, Lucinda went to the neighborhood store Tuesday evening and failed to return.

Chief of Police Jack Thomas of the Charleroi police department, to whom the girl's disappearance was reported, said late yesterday that he felt reasonably certain that the girl had been kidnapped.

Twenty Injured As Train Falls Through Bridge

Long Island Train Runs Past Danger Signal And Topples Into Jamaica Bay

MIRACLE THAT NO LIVES ARE LOST

Police And Fire Rescue Squads Work Frantically To Raise Submerged Coaches

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 21.—Approximately twenty persons were injured and the lives of scores of others imperilled when a Long Island train ran past a danger signal and plunged through an open pivot bridge into Jamaica Bay today.

One car in the train was all but submerged. The second dropped on top of the first, pinning it down. A tug, which had just passed through the bridge, narrowly escaped the huge coaches as they plunged down.

Officials of the Long Island road denied that any lives had been lost, although only a miracle could have prevented fatalities under the circumstances. Police and fire rescue squads, unable to raise the submerged car, were not convinced that no one was dead.

The train was bound to Far Rockaway was well filled with persons on their way to the beaches there. Only the first two cars of the ten car train plunged through the bridge, the rear of the second hanging precariously twelve feet above the water.

Police said that the drawbridge, which swings on a pivot in the center of the span, had not yet sung about completely when the train dashed through the red danger signal and leaped off the trestle.

Long Island road officials, after a hurried survey of the disaster, reported that the wreck was caused by the bridge's failure to close completely and denied that it had not had time to close since the passage of a tug.

Three New Boys Join Y Campers

Camp Survives Severe Storm With Only Slight Inconvenience

Three new boys were welcomed to the Y. M. C. A. camp on the Slippery Rock creek Friday afternoon. The boys are Dean Gibson and James Allen, who have been assigned to tent number one, and James Sotus, who, immediately upon his arrival at camp, was made leader of tent number two.

Nothing went amiss at the Y camp during Thursday evening's rain. Of course, some of the mist from the rain did manage to beat through the canvass of the tents, but aside from that, no damage was done.

Friday afternoon, two teams, headed by John C. Leonard and Henry McNicholas battled to a 5 to 5 tie in a soccer football game. This afternoon, the New Castle Y baseball team is playing a team from the Butler camp at the New Castle Y camp grounds.

Dame Ellen Terry, Famed English Actress, Is Dead

Death Claims Ellen Terry, Noted Shakespearean Actress, In 80th Year

WON WORLD FAME BEFORE FOOTLIGHTS

(International News Service)

LONDON, July 21.—Dame Ellen Terry, famous English actress, died today at her home at Small Hythe, near Tenterden in Kent, after an illness of several days.

Dame Terry was taken seriously ill Tuesday. Later she became semi-conscious and last night her breathing became difficult. Her daughter and son were at her bedside when the end came.

The celebration of her 80th birthday on Feb. 27 was the occasion for an outpouring of tributes from all over the world. The long list of congratulatory messages was headed by felicitations from the king and queen of England, who at their request had been kept informed of the actress' condition since her illness began.

Won World Success.

Famed as the greatest of all Shakespearean actresses, Ellen Terry first won recognition in her early 20's when she appeared in "The Taming of the Shrew" at the Queen's theatre, London.

Suffering from a cold on her 80th birthday, she was forced to set aside a special room for the overwhelming tribute of flowers, most of them her favorite daffodils, which came from the leaders of all nations.

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

THE MONKEY AND THE PARROT

Bobolink heard Mrs. Bobolink and poked his head out from under his wing. And the sly little bird couldn't have been asleep at all, for he took up the tale right where Mrs. Bobolink had stopped.

"'Hello, monkeys,' cried the Parrots.

"'Hello yourselves, Parrots,' answered the Monkeys. Then both the birds and the beasts began to chatter so fast and so loudly that we could hardly make out what it was all about.

"'We have just come from the cocoanut grove, Parrots,' cried the leader, and all the monkeys chanted in chorus, 'Cocoanut grove, cocoanut grove.' The leader continued, 'Yum, yum, but the fruit was sweet. If you knew what was good you would dine on cocoanuts instead of that miserable palm tree fruit that you are so crazy about.'

"'Ho, you funny monkeys, you mind your own affairs and eat what you like and we will do the same,' screamed the Parrot, who had introduced himself to us and who was evidently the spokesman of his people. 'Your old cocoanuts would give us indigestion.'

"'I wish that I had brought one along to throw at you,' screamed the weazened monkey. 'I would have tossed it straight into your ugly face and then it would have given you a headache instead of a tummy ache.'

"'Ugly face, indeed!' yelled the parrot. 'Did you ever look at yourself in the pool, old bald one? If you should—never would the waters ripple again. You would have made them forever still, frozen into silence by your hateful image.'

"'Jealous! Jealous!' screamed the monkey, and all the monkeys echoed him. 'Can't swing by your tail and so you are mad. Can't make faces and so you are envious. Ha! Ha! Parrots are mad and we are glad and we know how to please them. Come on, brothers, let us make faces at them!'"

"I can make faces, too," declared Sonny-Bunny, suddenly. "Watch me," and the little rabbit wrinkled up his nose and twitched his ears and wiggled his pink tongue and looked so comical that even his mother forgot to reprove him and smiled fondly at him. As for Peter, he laughed right out loud.

"UGLY FACE INDEED! DID YOU EVER LOOK AT YOURSELF IN THE POOL, OLD BALD ONE?"

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News.

NEW YORK, July 21.—"Equal rights for men' is the slogan of a campaign which is the result of wrath generated in an anonymous wealthy New Yorker when, clad in knickers and minus a coat, he was refused service at his favorite restaurant. He has hired a press agent and given him the job of popularizing the wearing of knickers by men at all hours and on all occasions.

The sponsor set he ball rolling toward the goal by ordering all his male employes to wear knickers to work upon pain of dismissal.

The press agent is working on a campaign which provides for the hiring of a squad of husky, handsome, beknickered and coatless men to regularly seek admittance to exclusive restaurants, theaters, etc., and to start "trouble" if barred. He has also thought out a poster showing a man in knickers and a girl in the so-called flapper costume with the lines "WHY MUST I wear four times as much as she does to be modest?" Another poster he has in mind would show a man in knickers alongside George of England in court costume (which includes satin short pants), and the lines "If they're stylish enough for the king they're good enough for me."

Roses wilt quickly in Broadway's searing lights.

Five years ago Patricia Salmon, Montana cowgirl entertainer arrived in Manhattan on a tremendous wave of publicity to be a star in "The Follies." For two years she was a featured attraction, then she faded. Now she is a hostess in a Broadway night club, unhonored, unsung, unwept, as the phrase goes. She tried recently to get back into the spotlight by entering an endurance dancing contest and found Broadway had forgotten her name which used to shine nightly in blazing letters a foot high. But she isn't going back to Montana.

Chicogans know how to make themselves at home in New York.

The other morning a Windy City man issued forth from a night club feeling pretty good but not good enough to walk to his hotel. All his efforts to hail a taxi were in vain, so discovering a phone box on a neighboring pole, he first demanded a taxi and then—when told it was police headquarters he was talking to—a patrol wagon. The latter was obligingly sent and he was hospitably toted to his hotel and handed over to the clerk to be put to bed.

The only explanation is that Police Commissioner Warren recently ordered his cops to be polite to visitors.

Start Drive For Funds For Miners

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 21—Foreseeing a period of strife and hardship while miners battle for union recognition following the union's abandonment of the Jacksonville scale of wages, directors of the national miners' relief committee Friday announced a coast-to-coast drive for funds, opening July 22.

"Although the officials of the United Mine Workers of America have instructed the districts to sign separate agreements, the struggle is not over,' Alfred Wagenknecht, relief director, said today.

"The Pittsburgh Coal company and the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal company declare they will never sign agreements wtih any union. This means that the fight against openshopdox is still on."

Wagenknecht said that the international labor defense is cooperating with the national miners' relief committee in its drive for funds to tide the union miners over until they go back to work.

BRAKES cause accidents or prevent them

—which kind are yours?

It only takes one skid—one emergency in which brakes fail to hold—to cause an accident. It might be slight—perhaps a jammed fender—and it might cost a life. Why gamble with chance? Brakes, out of balance or not equalized will cause a car to skid to the right or left. Four-wheel brakes—when out of adjustment—add no more to your ability to stop than two-wheel brakes. Your car is only as safe as its brakes. Keep them in perfect adjustment.

We have installed a new JUMBO Giant Brake Tester that scientifically tests two or four-wheel brakes. Use our accurate test every 1500 miles. If adjustments are needed we will make them quickly—at a very reasonable charge.

See for Yourself

Right before your eyes—on accurate hydraulic gauges—the JUMBO Brake Tester reveals the true condition of the brake on each wheel. Eliminates all chance for human error—no guesswork. Assures positive equalization and perfect balance of brakes—maximum braking efficiency—"guaranteed safety!"

Children Romp At Playgrounds

Franklin Playground To Soon Be Enclosed By Wire Fence

GASTON PARK HAS LARGEST ATTENDANCE

The playground season is now in full swing with the various activities of interest that are a daily occurrence at each ground. They include, game, hikes, handicraft, picnics and numerous other things that delight the hearts of children.

At the McLeary Avenue playground the number of children enrolled to date is 114 with an average daily attendance of 60. And in spite of the floods that regularly cover its playing territory it nevertheless manages to operate on a strict schedule. The program includes golf, paddle tennis, quoits, horseshoe pitching and craftwork. Other activities vary with the number of children present and the weather. At a recent horseshoe pitching contest McCleary won a decision over the West Side playground. In a baseball game the girls divided honors with West Side. In the handicraft work some of the projects completed are embroidery, cards, aprons, pot holders, and paper flowers. A point system has been worked out whereby the children receive credit for flag raising, helping with equipment, flower garden, members of teams and attendance. The playground president is Catherine Lewis.

Fair Weather Helps

The recent few days of fair weather has caused the percentage of attendance at Croton to mount until the daily average is close to 100. The girls have been very much interested in various forms of handicraft. This week they are working on paper flowers and several have finished weaving attractive baskets. Strange as it may seem this latter work is nearly as popular with the boys as it is with the girls. Emma Colaluca is the Croton jacks champion. Her title came as the result of a tournament played off last Wednesday. Ida Latess played in the final elimination but was defeated by one point. The Senior boys' team defeated the Gaston aggregation in a closely contested ball game. With Croton trailing up to the last inning Crisci banged out a two bagger and brought in the winning run. Next week the team will play the Mack Tires. The Croton boys have displayed an unusual ability at carpentry as indicated by the splendidly repaired work table. No doubt the constructive spirit was instigated by Miss Lyle, the instructor.

The Franklin playground will soon be entirely enclosed by a high wire fence and facilitate to some extent, the work of Miss Gillespie, the instructor. This ground is entirely devoid of trees to provide shade so a tentfly has been rigged on the tackling dummy frame and works very efficiently in providing the much needed shade on these hot days. It no doubt has stimulated the attendance. The roll book contains the names of 200 individuals who periodically visit the playground. The average daily attendance is over 100. On cool days this mounts close to 150. The fine playing field is taken advantage of for paddle tennis and baseball, two favorite pastimes. On Thursday of next week the first swim period will be conducted in the Ben Franklin swimming pool.

Birds and Rabbits

Gaston Park has an average daily attendance of 300 and has the capacity to handle three times that number because of the available area. If Gaston could be developed into a centralized playground the number of children attending could easily be tripled. Everything to delight a child is found here. Large trees to provide shade, crystal streams, playfields, sand boxes and appartus without end; literally a mecca to attract the most fastidious child. A fine baseball diamond, awaiting rolling and a tennis court under construction will be available to the older boys in the near future. On Thursday a hard luck streak was responsible for a Gaston defeat at the hands of Croton. Much credit is due Hudson for the great game that he pitched for the losers.

On Wednesday Miss Tucker conducted a hike to Weinshenks where a swim and games were enjoyed. A great opportunity for nature study is offered at Gaston. On the tract itself fifty species of birds have been positively identified, together with fox and pine squirrels and the little eastern chipmunk. A multitude of rabbits frequent the brush bordering the hollow. A good project would be the installation of bird houses and feeding stations to make the place more attractive to the feathered denizens. Indeed, this only park-like area within the city limits should be developed to its greatest extent. A small expenditure of money and time would place New Castle a little higher up in the national scale of recreational cities.

Damaged by Rain

At the present time the West Side playground is making a valient effort to repair the damage done to it by the cloudburst. The small stream that runs through the center of it went on a rampage and destroyed the three bridges within the confines of the ground, besides widening its bed to three or more times its original size. Mr. Shibler, the caretaker certainly gazed upon a devastated area upon his arrival on Friday morning. All morning the children attending were busily engaged discovering the new wonders disclosed by the rampant flood of the night before. In all the swelter of water, the flower garden because of its location on the hillside escaped damage. The average daily attendance is close to 150. The Junior Boys' baseball team was taken into camp by Gaston on Thursday by the close score of 11-10. Handicrafts play a large part in the program of this playground. Many projects have been completed with many others underway.

Miss Mackey, the industrial supervisor of the city playgrounds has launched a program that is not only popular but extremely useful to the children. Praise is due to all of the instructors for popularizing this handy art among the boys as well as the girls.

Friendship Flier Starts Honeymoon; Weds In Chicago

Louis Gordon, Friendship Mechanic Weds Brookline, Mass., Girl In Chicago

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 21.—Louis Gordon, mechanic of the plane Friendship, in which Amelia Earhart won the distinction of being the first woman to spah the Atlantic by air, and his bride, the former Ann Bruce of Brookline, Mass., were on their honeymoon today.

The slim mechanic and Miss Bruce were married on the stage of the Trianon ball room before a gathering of more than 300 here last night. The marriage service was read by Judge William R. Fetzer.

The bride was attended by Miss Amelia Earhart, Chicago's guest of honor, a sister and her mother. Wilmer Stultz, pilot of the Friendship, acted as best man.

The bride wore white satin with a bridal veil. She and Miss Earhart carried sprays of roses. The stage was banked with orange blossoms.

Probe Death Of Conneaut Butcher

Two Are Held In Connection With Case; Both Claim Butcher Accidentally Shot

CONNEAUT, O., July 20.—Two men were taken to the Ashtabula county jail today when the body of Roy Dean, 38, a prominent butcher and cattle buyer of Monroe Center was found with a bullet in his head near his home yesterday.

Both men under arrest told the county investigators that they had all been drinking. Dean, who had a gun in his hand cried, "Watch me shoot at the mark." The gun exploded and Dean dropped to the ground dead.

Although no charge has been made against the men, officials are inclined to doubt the suicide story of the prisoners. A jagged wound on the man's forehead seems to indicate that he had been hit with a sharp instrument. In addition, the autopsy revealed that there was a bullet lodged in the back of the skull.

It is thought that someone struck him first with an instrument of some store and later the bullet was fired into his head.

Issue Warning On Counterfeit Notes

The treasury department of the United States, through the postoffice authorities, has issued a warning to merchants and others of this vicinity to be on the lookout for two counterfeit notes, which have just appeared.

One of the bills, a Federal Reserve note on the Federal Reserve bank of New York, is for $100, and is fairly deceptive. This note is well executed and is believed to be the handiwork of counterfeiters responsible for other fake notes. The other counterfeit is a $10 Federal Reserve note, but amateurish makeup distinguishes it from the genuine.

It is the desire of the treasury authorities that persons be very careful when handling notes of these denominations.

With the work practically completed on most all of the floors and with a high speed passenger elevator already in operation tenants have commenced to take over their new locations in the seven-story annex of the Lawrence Savigs ad Trust Co., which has been in the course of construction for some time.

The first tennant—the W. G. Eckles Company—moved into their new offices on the top floor of the structure yesterday. Others will commence to inhabit the rooms shortly.

The new addition is connected with the main building on every floor and is erected so that as much light as possible will flow into the offices. A high-speed elevator which has been installed to take care of the enormous amount of traffic will provide a 24-hour service for the tenants.

The work of connecting the banking rooms with the other sections of the building is about completed and will enable patrons of both the offices and the bank to move much more rapidly than before.

Some Surprise On Appointment Of Roy O. West

Coolidge Announces Selection Of Dr. Work's Successor In Cabinet

ILLINOIS MAN NAMED TO POST

Will Serve Only Until End Of President Coolidge's Term Next March

(International News Service)

SUPERIOR, Wis., July 21. — The appointment of Roy O. West as Secretary of Interior occasioned considerable surprise here today. It had been expected confidently that the post Dr. Hubert Work is vacating would go to a western man, as it is in the regions well west of the Mississippi that reclamation and irrigation—the two outstanding problems of the Interior Department—are most dominant.

West is an Illinois lawyer and has no experience in private life that would especially fit him to take charge of the public domain. Most of his life has been devoted to politics.

While it is argued that Work was a doctor, he comes from Denver and is thoroughly conversant with the demands of the West. It had been thought here that William V. Hodges, also of Denver, and a close personal friend of Work's would get the call.

Six Months' Job

West's inexperience and geographical address are not expected to block his confirmation by the senate, however. Friends of the President point out that the job is only for slightly over six months duration, and it is not anticipated that any considerable number of senators would feel minded to withhold approval to a personal appointment for such a short length of time.

Mr. Coolidge selected the Illinois National Committeeman because of a warm, personal friendship, manifested by the recent visit of West to Cedar Island Lodge by express invitation, and he wants a confirmation immediately when the senate convenes.

The Chicago man accepted the appointment, it is understood, with the express agreement that his tenure in office would cease on March 4, next, along with President Coolidge and that he need expect no similar reward from Herbert Hoover, should the latter be elected. The glory of serving half a year as a member of the cabinet will suffice West, it is said.

Fires Two Shots On Butler Road In Auto Encounter

Arrested And Held Here As Result; Claims Car Tried To Crowd Him Off Road

Two shots fired in the direction of another car in a mad race between Butler and New Castle at 3 o'clock this morning landed William Barnes and LeRoy Stewart both of Youngstown in the New Castle police station on the charges of disorderly conduct.

The occupants of the other car according to a statement of Barnes who was driving the machine, tried to crowd him off the road just outside of Butler. To frighten the other driver more than anything else, Barnes says he took his automotic pistol out of his pocket and fired twice behind the car.

Then the race was renewed. Barnes and Stewart did not stop when coming through New Castle but the occupants of the other car whose names are not divulged, came to the New Castle police station and made the charges against both Barnes and Stewart. The Youngstown police were informed and they halted the men at the state line, bringing them back into Pennsylvania where the shooting occurred.

In a statement made to Henry Dysart of the New Castle police force and County Detective William Fleming this morning, Barnes said that he had gone to Butler to get in touch with his wife who has not been living with him since April. Instead he alleges, she has been going with a man in Butler; the man who tried to force him from the road, causing him to shoot.

Because no one preferred charges against them, William Barnes and LeRoy Stewart of Youngstown, O., were released this morning, stated Chief of Police C. C. Horner, at noon.

Alarm Felt That Mexico Is Now Facing Revolt

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington Correspondent for Central Press and New Castle News.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Only one man stands between Mexico and chaos —Plutarco Calles. Whether he can continue to do so more than momentarily is as uncertain as the fall of a flipped coin.

Alvaro Obregon, murdered president-elect, and Calles were what may be described as alternating partners in the Mexican presidency.

First Obregon—then Calles—then Obregon—then Calles—and so on indefinitely. At least that was the program. A bullet interrupted it.

Obregon and Calles appear to have framed their pact while the former was president. Calles succeeded him as agreed. Before Obregon could become eligible again it was necessary to change the constitution, which prohibited one man from serving twice. This change was made as Calles' term drew toward its close. As amended it forbade consecutive terms, but not a plurality separated by intervals.

It was Obregon's turn to run and he announced his candidacy.

Former War Minister Francisco Serrano and General Arnulfo Gomez announced theirs also, according to their friends' account, or, if the Calles-Obregon version is to be accepted, attempted a revolution.

Anyway, the Calles government executed them as revolutionists.

This left Obregon unopposed. He was elected unanimously and was to have been inaugurated in December. With his assassination the question of his successor arises. Calles is ineligible until after an interval.

The constitution might be changed again, but it would take time.

Besides there is another difficulty. Obregon and Calles were personal friends, but their parties were not very friendly.

Obregon was an agrarian and had an agrarian congress when president. Calles is a Laborite and a Laborite congress was provided to cooperate with him. But at this term's expiration a newly elected agrarian congress will take office again, planned for Obregon's convenience. It certainly will oppose a prolongation of Calles' tenure.

Obregon was the strong man of the pair. He might have met the situation by extra constitutional methods. Unsupported by him it is the consensus that Calles would precipitate a revolt if he attempted it. Yet nobody is in sight with the qualities to succeed. If such a man exists he must emerge from obscurity. Survivors of the old Diaz regime perhaps possess the ability, but the whole country would rise against them.

Immediate action is imperative, but any that is taken threatens bloodshed. A dictatorship is suggested. That, too, would mean warfare. Mexican conditions at best have been less satisfactory than surface appearances have indicated. Obregon had the army's backing and gave Calles the the benefit of it, but popular discontent has been rampant. It is doubtful if Calles alone can hold the army.

Mexicans in Washington have been betting for weeks that Obregon would be killed before inauguration day. Now they are betting that Calles will speedily follow.

To say that the state department is alarmed is no exaggeration. With Ambassador Morrow's pacification of the stubborn and intractable Calles seemingly practically accomplished, Secretary Kellog was looking for still better relations wtih the advent of the more moderate, adaptable, and abler Obregon.

Just at a time when the Mexican outlook was seen at its brightest, overnight developments have transformed it into the most precarious since American recognition of the Obregon government in 1923.

Establish Check For Jap Beetle

State Divided Into Five Districts, One Headquarters At Pittsburgh

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 21.—Practically the entire state outside of the Japanese beetle quarantine area will be watched for new manifestations, the Department of Agriculture announced today. The check is necessary, it was said, because of the danger that a few beetles which slipped through the quarantine lines have established colonies in other sections.

The scouting crews will have headquarters at Altoona, Pittsburgh, Montoursville, Bushkill, Liverpool, Scranton and Chambersburg. Other crews to check the extent of the beetle infestation in nurseries and greenhouses within the quarantined area will have headquarters at Lancaster, Bloomsburg, Oxford, Norristown and Allentown.

The state has been divided into five districts, each of which has a supervisor. The supervisors are located at Norristown, Lancaster, Harrisburg, Milton and Scranton. The district scouts report to their supervisors who in turn report to the state headquarters at Norristown.

Department officials suggest that persons finding beetles will aid in the work if they will take them to the nearest scouting crew.

Capt. W. C. Price Delivers Fine Talk At Motor Club Barbecue

Fire Chief Plante Received Award Of $10 Gold Piece For New Members

ELLWOOD CITY, June 21.—Last evening at the barbecue of the Ellwood City Motor club held at the Ewing Park grounds, Captain W. C. Price, superintendent of the state highway patrol Pennsylvania stated that he hoped that the Ellwood club would in future co-operate with the patrol as several other clubs in various parts of the state.

Captain Price said in part, "I hope that the officials of the Ellwood club will plan to co-operate with the patrol in the matters of disputes, between motorists-members and the officers of the state patrol. Several clubs arrange appointment between the state patrolman or corporal in charge of the station, and the party having the accident or dispute. The stories are then presented in hearing of the motor club officials and many cases have been settled successfully, without going into court.

"I am also glad to be able to meet with the members of the Ellwood City Motor club. I have tried on two other occasions to come to Ellwood for such meetings, but, train wrecks in both cases have delayed me so that I could not attend.

"So today I drove through taking no chances on the trains. And coming over the Zelienople road I am again brought to the attention to the fact that the bond issue this fall should be passed by the people. There are many such roads over the state, that should be hard surfaced and of course the communities of the larger and wealthier counties have their system of road built, but, it is now time to get into "backwoods Pennsylvania" and complete the job."

Captain Price also explained the work of the Patrol, and exacting training that each man must undergo before allowed to go onto the highways of the state on the patrol work. His son, who is a summer member of the patrol had the misfortune last week in some patrol duty near Scranton, of being catapaulted from his motorcycle is suffering with a fracture of the head, and lies seriously ill at Scranton. Captain Price returned to Harrisburg last evening after the meeting.

About 50 members of the local club turned out to the barbecue that was held in the Ewing Park grounds. The bad rain at 5 o'clock dampened the party considerably and many did not believe that the affair would be held. However, music was one of the outstanding entertaining features, being offered by Milliman, and one of the new fangled broadcasting outfits.

President Burton J. Bell presided at the short business session, and he reported on the club's affairs and activities since the last annual meeting in March, 1927. An election of a new board of directors was held resulting in the following being chosen to take charge of the club's affairs for the coming year.

Ray Aylesworth, Burton J. Bell, M. A. Bickett, C. P. Cloak, C. C. Davidson, L. L. Gelbach, Roland Haines, Dr. C. M. Iseman, H. J. Plante and B. D. Turner.

The committee in charge of the Barbecue was headed by Tom Daley, chairman, with able support and help of Lou Young, Chief Plante, Dal Turner and I. E. MacIlroy of the Ellwood Country club. The campaign committee decided that the campaign would be extended over the coming week, and a particular effort will be made to increase the present membership several hundred.

For the campaign work of the past ten days, Chief Plante was awarded the ten dollar gold piece offered by President Bell, for bringing in the most members during the past few days.

Other plans relative to the club will be announced in Monday's paper. President Bell, who is retiring from active leadership of the local organization this morning stated that he wanted to sincerely thank all connected with the drive and barbecue, the newspapers, the Shelby Land company for the use of the park and the other organizations that assisted. President Bell, who has been appointed the state director of publicity for the Pennsylvania Motor Federation has a big year ahead, with bond issues and legislature and for that reason, cannot be active in local work.

Local Club To Have Championship Golf Course Here

Proposed Addition To Local Course To Elevate It To Best In Country, Is Stated

ELLWOOD CITY, July 21.—Emil Loeffler of the Oakmont club and a group of other engineers visited Ellwood City today and roughly planned the additional nine holes which have been under consideration of the board of directors of the club for some time.

The land has been secured from Walter Jackson, 75 acres, and when completed will make as fine a course as can be seen in the country. In fact, the engineers opined today that it would rank as the best. Mr. Loeffler, who is greens keeper of the famous Oakmont club, is well known for his artistic golf architecture, and plans to make the finished plan at the local club one of surpassing beauty as well as an excellent course from the golfing standpoint.

The expense of the additional nine holes is estimated to amount to about $35,000 and will probably be completed in the course of a year and a half or two years.

Coming—RICHARD DIX in "THE GAY DEFENDER"

Couldn't Tell Which Twin Was Concerned; Both Freed

COLUMBUS, O., July 21.—Clark and Mark O'Connor, veritable Mike and Ike twins, were released from jail here today by Judge Benson W. Hough after he had been attempting to solve the puzzle of which was which for some time.

The way it all happened was that Clark and Mark had been arrested on narcotic charges at different times. One, whichever it was, had been in jail awaiting trial for 60 days, and the other one had been in but 30 days.

The former was sentenced to 30 days and the latter to 60 days in order to balance things up a little bit for the two. Afterwards some one whispered in the judge's ear that he had sentenced them the wrong way and he had the records erased and changed it to 120 and 60 days respectively for one or the other. No one knows just which one yet. He had hardly done this when a sister of the twins appeared in court and claimed that it was still twisted and that he had it right the first time.

The way they finally figured it out was that a statute prohibits the lengthening of a sentence and that lets one or the other out and it wouldn't be fair to keep one and let the other one go so that lets which ever one the other one is out.

Court attaches say it was the only solution so it must be legal.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

By J. Carroll Mansfield

The Story Of Our War With Spain
War Declared With Spain, April 25, 1898.

THE DAY AFTER CONGRESS PASSED RESOLUTIONS DEMANDING THE INDEPENDENCE OF CUBA AND THE WITHDRAWAL OF THE SPANISH TROOPS. SPAIN SEVERED DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS WITH THE UNITED STATES (APRIL 20, 1898), AND REJECTED OUR ULTIMATUM.

APRIL 25, CONGRESS ADOPTED A JOINT RESOLUTION DECLARING "THAT WAR BE . . . DECLARED TO EXIST, AND THAT WAR HAS EXISTED SINCE THE 21ST DAY OF APRIL, 1898, INCLUDING SAID DAY, BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA AND THE KINGDOM OF SPAIN." THE DIE WAS CAST.

THE UNITED STATES MADE HURRIED PREPARATIONS FOR WAR. CONGRESS HAD ALREADY APPROPRIATED $50,000,000 FOR NEW WARSHIPS AND NATIONAL DEFENSE. THE GOVERNMENT LATER BORROWED $200,000,000 FROM THE PUBLIC, WHO ENTHUSIASTICALLY SUBSCRIBED FOR NO LESS THAN SEVEN TIMES THE AMOUNT CALLED FOR.

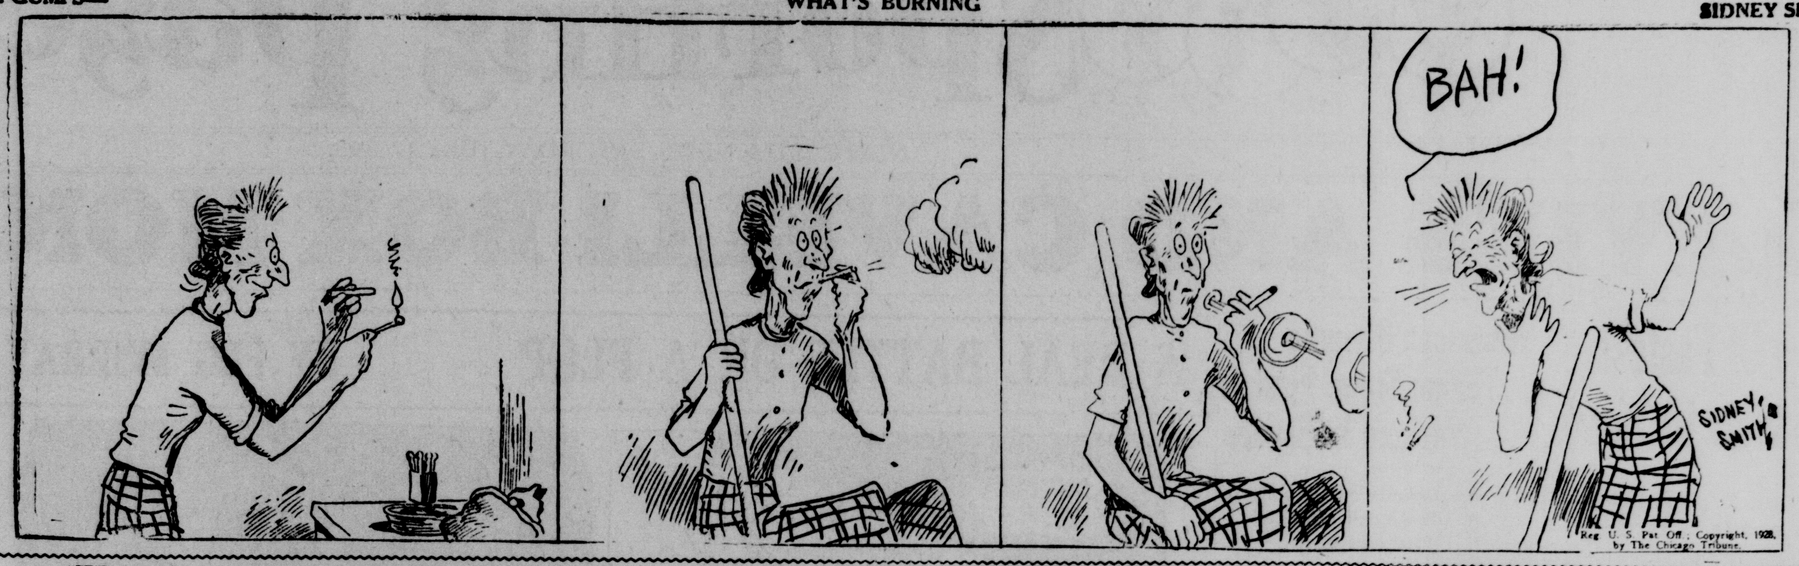

WHEN THE WAR BROKE OUT, OUR REGULAR ARMY NUMBERED ABOUT 28,000 MEN. IT WAS SOON INCREASED TO 44,000, WHILE A LARGE VOLUNTEER ARMY WAS SPEEDILY RAISED. IN A PROCLAMATION (APRIL 23), THE PRESIDENT CALLED FOR 125,000 VOLUNTEERS. MAY 25, HE CALLED FOR 75,000 MORE.

DAVIES AND CAVELLI BOX MONDAY NIGHT

Two Of Fastest Boxers In "Game"

Boychan To Face Real Kayo Artist In Ruckman Of Akron

THREE OTHER GOOD BATTLES ARRANGED

TWO of the best punchers, fastest and most scientific boxers in the ring will clash in a feature 10-round battle Monday night at Jolly Bowl, and when the two stars, Carl Cavelli, Canton, O., and Willie Davies, Charleroi, Pa., answer the bell, fistic fans of the tri-state district should witness one of the greatest bouts ever staged here. They are flyweights, and according to those versed in boxing, they expect to see a faster and better bout than that staged between Frankie Rio and Young Billy Wallace, which is expecting more than the ordinary.

Cavelli, formerly sold newspapers in New Castle. When his parents moved to Canton he accompanied them, and during the last several years has been cutting a wide swath among Ohio flyweights; in fact, he is the recognized champion of Ohio. He is Italian-American. Davies is a Welsh-American, and during his ring career he has lost only two decisions and he later won over his conqueror. Corporal Izzy Schwartz.

Has Fought Schwartz

Carl fought Harry Crisp at the Old Armory last winter and despite a big weight handicap he got a draw. However, there were few fans present who did not believe that he should have had the decision. He is a fast, two-fisted fighter who doesn't stop one second, and is the only boxer in this part of the United States capable of making Davies go his very utmost to get an even break.

Davies has won from Corporal Izzy Schwartz, Frankie Mason, Newsboy Brown, Willie La Morte, Joey Ross, Dave Adelman, Midget Wolgast, Billy Kelly, Happy Atherton, Young Irish, Jackie Rio, Marty Gold, Ty Coleman, Black Bill and a score other flyweights.

Cavelli's whirlwind attack has resulted in knockouts over such good boys as Sergeant Bozo Telic, Tony Leon, Knockout Morgan, White Morett, Johnny Cole, Ray La Ray and decisions over Frankie Van, Young Irish and other good flyweights. He fought Davies a great bout at McKeesport, but lost a close decision in 10 rounds.

Will Be Sensational

While the main bout will be sensational, the fans can anticipate another Rio-Wallace setting to the Eddie Ruckman-Joe Boychan fight. Ruckman has defeated Johnny O'Keefe, Eddie Van Hooks, Eddie Bowen, Johnny Harrison, Maxie Holub, U. S. Carpentier, Tony Capois and others. He has 28 knockouts out of 35 fights, which is bad news to Joe.

The Boychan-Ruckman bout will go six rounds at 130, providing there isn't a knockout, and in the other six-rounder Mickie Dugan, the Cleveland featherweight, will tackle the first Filipino to ever fight in New Castle. The brown boy is Jacinto Perz Valdez, and he has whipped Phil Swick the puncher of Cleveland, and other good boys.

Because Jackie Powers and Tony Canzoni, bantamweights, milled every second of their four-round go last Monday night, they have been rematched at 115 and Harry Lebo, a New Castle boy who is said to be as fast as Romeo Pacelli, will box Johnny Haggerty of Pittsburgh. They will enter the ring weighing 122 pounds.

Loosen Muscles Up

Tomorrow afternoon Davies and Cavelli will journey to the Jolly Bowl. Davies never trains on a Sunday, but Cavelli will loosen his muscles with light calisthenics. They will register at the Leslie Hotel and at three o'clock Monday weigh 117 pounds. The bouts Monday night will start at nine o'clock fast time.

A REAL BATTLE OR A FLOP — BY FEG MURRAY

Copyright, 1928, by Metropolitan Newspaper Service

As Mr. E. A. Batchelor of the Detroit Athletic News, says, "Just how far the tractable American public will go in falling for an entertainment that is bound to be a 'bust' will be proved when Gene Tunney and Tom Heeney collide in July. On the face of it, this promises to be one of the worst heavyweight bouts in all history."

Well now, Mr. Batchelor, I wouldn't go so far as to say that, but I do agree with you that this year's "battle of the century" doesn't look so exciting and the ordinary fan hates to think of Mr. James Joseph Tunney getting $8,750 a minute for waltzing 15 rounds with an uncouth gentleman who isn't aggressive and can't punch hard enough to knock down a wooden Indian.

The thing that the bout lacks, of course, is color. Tunney hasn't any. Heeney has even less. Neither has a knock-out punch, which helps make a fighter colorful. Various methods to try to build up the fight, such as Jim Jeffries saying Heeney had a chance to win, "Boo Boo" Hoff suing Tunney, stories to the effect that Gene had developed a terrific knock-out punch, that Heeney was a "man of destiny" and so forth and so on, all have failed to arouse a great amount of interest.

Heeney, the courageous plodding blacksmith from "Doun Under", probably was the only logical candidate, but many a fan would like to see Jack Sharkey in there in his stead, that is, ever since Sharkey knocked out Delaney in one round. Heeney, you remember, couldn't K. O. Delaney in 15 rounds, Paulino in 25 or Sharkey and Risko in ten rounds each. All in all, the battle on the night of July 26 is almost certain to go the limit, as have the last two heavyweight championship fights.

Oh for the good old days, when titles were defended or lost on knock-outs!

Rickard Confident Tunney-Heeney Gate Will Pass Million

Noted Promoter Says That About 41,000 Persons Would Witness Championship Go

Yankee Stadium Is Scene Next Thursday Of Heavyweight Show; Tex Not Worried

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

NEW YORK, July 21.—Newspaper pessimists, viewing the situation with a slightly bilious eye, were charged by the Rickard organization today with unwitting attempts to injure the gate receipts through their doleful predictions dealing with and appertaining to the Tunney-Heeney ticket sale. It was only the men in the ranks who brought this charge; it remained for Rickard himself to predict that the attempts, unwitting or otherwise, would prove unsuccessful. Wearily and maybe for the last time, Rickard reaffirmed his estimate that the gate would "go well over" a million dollars.

Rickard Confident

"I'm not fool enough to make a liar out of myself at a time like this," said the gentleman with asperity, which is one of those things that is not quite as high as a dudgeon. "I operate on public confidence and it is my plan never to make a statement I can't support. In fact, I always underestimated these gates in the past. So that when I say now that I expect the gate to reach $1,200,000 I feel I am giving myself none the best of it."

In semi-support of Rickard's contention, three developments of some significance made their appearance today. The writer is not attempting to say what will happen; merely pointing out what appears to be so. The developments in question were:

1. A check-up revealed that a turnout of 41,000 people, meager in comparison with attendances at other heavyweight championship matches of the decade, would give Rickard slightly more than his $1,000,000 gate.

2. Jess McMahon, always temperate in his utterances, was willing to wager that more than 16,000 ringside seats would be sold.

3. The writer was unable to do better than the 25th row in purchasing ringside seats and he went right to Rickard, at that.

Why Worry?. Says Tex

An attendance of 41,000, if apportioned through the various price scales, as the writer estimated they might be, would produce a gross intake of $1,002,500, which would make Rickard's profit about $200,000. The writer's estimate was studiously conservative, however. The McMahon venture of 16,000 ringside seats sold means $640,000 alone.

"That's half of my estimated gross right away," Rickard added. "Of course, I admit I sell more ringside than any other kind, but my $15 and $10 dollar seats also are big sellers, particularly during the last few days. What I can't understand is why people should be so concerned about this. If we see no reason to worry, why should they? It's our money, isn't it?"

This point is well taken. It might even be that both Rickard and the point are to be well taken. But this is nothing out of my lunch box nor yours. And, besides, the figures prove that the fight will have to be an awful flop, from an attendance standpoint, to do worse than a million dollars at the box office.

This can best be realized when it is pointed out that the seating capacity for the Yankee Stadium on the night of the fight will be approximately 107,000. Imagine a crowd of 40,000 in a spot like that!

Such a crowd would be called a disappointing turnout, even by Rickard himself. And yet it would get him a million dollar gate. Perhaps it would not be a second-class idea for all of us, including myself, to see more and say less of this man's personal business while waiting definite and actual developments at the pay-off.

Kiski Youth Wins Junior Golf Title

Dennis St. Clair Is Winner Over Fred Brand Jr., In Junior Golf Tourney

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 21.—The crown of Western Pennsylvania's junior golf championship today rests on the curly head of Dennis St. Clair who carried the colors of Kiski to honor by virtue of his defeat of the defending title holder, Fred Brand, Jr., representing the Sewickley Y. M. C. A. 2 up in the finals of the eigtth annual tournament at the Shannopin Country club here.

Although Brand was dethroned and his crown wrested away from him by the Kiski champ he took his defeat gracefully and satisfied himself with the consolation that despite his dethronement he turned in a better medal score than his successor. Brand journeyed the 18 holes in 77 six over par while St. Clair made the trip in 78.

The best illustration of a psychological moment is that wee fraction of time when a cantaloupe is neither too green nor too ripe.

Babe Ruth Planning Retirement In 1929, Wants Summer Rest

Famous Home Run Slugger's Contract Will Expire At End Of Next Season

Hopes To Realize Ambition To Sock 500 Homers In Big League Career

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 21.—Babe Ruth, home run king of the major leagues, declares he will retire from baseball at the end of the 1929 season—no foolin'!

While most of the Babe's teammates on the New York Yankees received his announcement skeptically, the big gun of the world's champions insisted today that the lure of spanking a new white baseball into distant bleachers would hold no charm for him after next season.

"Next year will be my last year," the Bambino declared, apparently in all seriousness. "I've had a great time in baseball and the game has been good to me. I'm well fixed and independent, and I'm going to quit before I get kicked out."

Ruth's contract expires at the end of the 1929 season. He pointed out that by that time he probably will have realized his ambition to hit 500 home runs during his big league career.

"For 15 years I've wanted to take a summer vacation," Ruth continued. "By the end of next year I will have saved enough money to be independent."

Dodgers Beat Pirates Again

Kremer Goes To Showers In Second And Dodgers Win, 8 To 7

PITTSBURGH, July 21.—Brooklyn made it two straight from the Pirates yesterday afternoon winning 8 to 7 in a game that was marred by rain and played out a heavy turf. Petty lasted only one inning in which the Pirates ripped their way from behind but their own ace, Kremer, had a bad day and in the second he was driven to the showers. As a result the Dodgers went out of the second session in the lead five to four.

Dawson relieved Kremer and Clark pitched against him. Dawson showed effectiveness but he was the victim of several breaks and in the sixth was removed to allow a pinch hitter in the game. Tauscher took his place. The final score was 8 to 7.

Member Of Crew Is Under Arrest In Ship Robbery

Authorities Make Arrest In Leviathan Mail Robbery Of Month Ago

NEW YORK, July 21.—Archibald Chapman, 32, of London, assistant linen keeper on the Leviathan, is being held in $7,500 bail for a hearing August 9, for the mail robbery of the ship a month ago.

Postal inspectors claim that they found a bunch of keys in Chapman's room and that one of them had been filed down so that it would fit the lock of the mail compartment. Chapman's regular work aboard the vessel was near the mail room.

The charge today is that the robbery was committed on the high seas instead of the former belief that the mail had been stolen at a European dock.

Sometime ago, Chapman served six months in England when he failed to return a valuable ring that one of the passengers aboard the Olympic lost. He claims that he has taken out the preparatory papers in becoming an American citizen.

By QUIN HALL.

INTEREST in walking has recently been revived to some extent and it's a sport in which the fans of the present day might well take an extremely active interest because, after all, walking is not only a sport but a first-class exercise.

The interest was revived considerably because a youngster named Gunn, the son of a Western millionaire, walked from coast to coast with C. C. Pyle's Bunion Derbyites and en route he broke all existing walking records.

While the members of Pyle's troupe jog-trotted, ran or merely lagged along the roadside stretching from California to New York City, this Gunn youngster stepped a measured tread and walked the entire distance. A week after the finish of the Derby of Blistered Feet most of the entrants entered a 26-hour race in Madison Square Garden in New York City. Young Gunn again did his stuff for the benefit of the few customers who grew lonesome together in the big arena.

But Gunn didn't mind the lack of attendance. Hour after hour he swung around the small oval, arms and legs attuned to a steady gait which never varied.

Gunn's feat has recalled other well-known walkers and has brought up such famous names as Dan O'Leary and Edward Payson Weston. The latter, one of the best showmen of the trampers, is now retired. Some years ago he was a rival of O'Leary, but today he couldn't step with the jaunty Dan despite the fact that they are both the same age, each having been born in the year 1839.

In the face of his almost ninety years, O'Leary is still an active walker and does his fifteen miles every day. He not only does it, but he sets a pace which is rather difficult for a younger man to follow. He hopes to live to be 100, and on his hundredth birthday he hopes to celebrate by walking ten miles in two hours.

There was a time when six-day hikes were popular sporting events. The bicycles, the automobiles, the airships and the dancing marathons and cross-country hikes have rather dimmed the glory of those days when the names of O'Leary and Weston had their telling effect, but the young-old Dan O'Leary continues to pound down the sod along the sides of the hard roads which for speed's sake have replaced the dusty highways which were in vogue when O'Leary was in his prime and a walking race was something to get all excited about.

O'Leary virtually walked his way to the United States from his birthplace in Ireland. In other words, he earned his passage by winning a fifty-mile walk from Skibbereen to Cork. Each of the eight contestants put up an entry fee of a pound and with the eight-pound pot thus acquired Dan bought his way to America. That was when he was 25 years old.

One of Dan's outstandnig victories was over Weston in 1877 on the track in Agricultural Hall in London. It was a six-day go-as-you-please affair and O'Leary walked 520 miles to Weston's 510. During the six-day grind Dan was only off the track for twenty-six hours.

Instead of sprouting a bay window—a sign of age—O'Leary is taking off weight as he grows older. Today he weighs 130, whereas he used to tip the scales at 140. He's keenly alert mentally and doesn't spend his time bemoaning the passing of "those good old days."

In referring to Gunn he says: "He's a great kid and a boy wonder."

Gene Tunney To Go To New York By Plane, Says

Champion Determined To Travel To New York City Via Airplane

(International News Service)

SPECULATOR, N. Y., July 21.A rift threatens Tunney's camp today. It is caused by the champion's determination to fly to New York for next Thursday night's bout with Tom Heeney.

Gene is all for the proposed flight Billy Gibson is against it. So is Bill McCabe, one of Gene's closest friends and most trusted advisers. So are several others who feel that they have the title holder's best interests at heart.

Gibson and McCabe argue that Tunney has many besides himself to consider. But Gene feels that it is a personal matter and is determined to fly. He feels that if he backed out now people would say he was afraid to make the trip by air.

No sooner did the titleholder make known his determination to fly to New York than Billy Gibson took out a $500,000 accident policy on the champion for the trip. Tunney also notified his atorneys to block any legal effort made by Tex Rickard to prevent his making the flight.

Mother Starts Afoot On 200 Mile Hike Pushing Carriage

SANDUSKY, O., July 21.—A 20-year-old mother and her two-months-old son attempted to start a 200-mile hike together here today to Portsmouth, O. The woman, Mrs. Wilma Marhart, was intercepted by her mother and county authorities at the city limits and brought back home.

About five miles of the journey had been done by the woman, pushing her child in a baby buggy, when she was accosted by the officers.

She was without funds, Mrs. Marhart said, and as she had heard that her husband was working at Portsmouth she wanted to join him, so she started out afoot with the baby in the carriage.

The probate court judge, John E. Tanney, advised the young woman to remain at home with her mother.

Dodgers-Giants Play Fine Ball

Brooklyn And New York On Western Tour Upset Leaders Aplenty

ALVIN CROWDER IS FINALLY STOPPED

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, July 21.—The New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers are just about where they were when they started west two weeks ago. Due to the fact that practically no help was forthcoming from the Phillies and the Braves, the two stronger eastern clubs have gained no ground. But on the other hand they have upset the apple carts of the western contenders at sporadic intervals.

The Dodgers almost ruined the Cardinals and have stopped Pittsburgh's spectacular advance. Yesterday the Giants snapped the eight-game winning streak of the Cubs and took second place away from them, scoring three runs in the last two innings to grab a 4 to 3 decision. Stephenson, Welsh and Terry hit homers.

Carey Slugs Ball

Max Carey, former Pirate, drove in three runs as Brooklyn took an 8 to 7 slugfest from Pittsburgh. Lefty Clark's excellent relief twirling featured.

After yielding only one hit in eight innings, old Pete Alexander of the Cardinals was bumped for four runs by the Phils in the ninth. Reinhart stopped the Quakers cold, however, insuring a 5 to 4 victory for the Cards.

The Braves lost to Cincinnati, 4 to 3. All four games in the National League were decided by a margin of one run.

The St. Louis Browns, who came to Philadelphia with the idea of closing in on the second-place Athletics, suffered their third straight defeat when George Earnshaw whitewashed them 4 to 0. The Baltimore graduate fanned ten men, and snapped the ten-game winning streak of Gen. Alvin Crowder, youthful Brownie boxman.

Washington trounced Detroit 7 to 4.

Rain May Afford Relief From Heat

Western Pennsylvania Swelters Under Terrific Heat; Bather Is Drowned

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 21.—Western Pennsylvania today scanned the skies for some indication of rain to bring relief from the heat wave which has added at least one death and one heat prostration to its toll.

Edgar Ramis of Clairton was drowned in the Monongahela river while seeking relief from the heat. His body was recovered following the discovery of a pair of shoes and overalls on the river bank, which led police to drag the stream.

Mrs. Mary Washington, 47, of Pittsburgh, was prostrated while walking downtown. She was attended at the Mercy hospital and later sent home.

The maximum temperature recorded yesterday was 86 degrees. The weather forecast for today indicates that western Pennsylvania will face another day of heat.

N. Y. STOCKS

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, July 21.—Stock prices closed lower today after fluctuating in an irregular manner earlier in the short session. Trading was extremely dull, total shares aggregating only 536,100 shares for the two hours of business, which was even lighter than the corresponding two hours of yesterday. Neither the bulls nor bears showed inclination to assume the aggressive over the week-end and prices moved within a narrow range.

Week end profit-taking caused a somewhat heavy tone in the industrial leaders shortly after the market got under way. Offerings, however, were very light and the market as a whole was free from pressure. An accumulation of buying orders overnight caused a little activity at the opening and a few stocks showed gains but this demand was quickly satisfied and the market turned dull and remained so until the close.

About the only animation in evidence was in issues benefitting from good trade conditions. Case Threshing Machine was in this class. The weekly trade reviews were generally optimistic on the business outlook and money carried over at five per cent.

United States Steel closed the day at 138¼, off ⅜, General Motors at 158½, down 2⅜, American Can 84, off ¼, Chrysler 72¼, off ⅝, General Electric 146, off ⅝, International Nickel 91¾, off ⅛, Montgomery Ward 164¼, down 2¼, Radio 165⅝, off 2⅝, Sears Roebuck 115⅝, down ⅜, Studebaker 67¼, off ¾, Wright Aeroplane 146, down a full point, and New York Central 160, off ⅛.

Columbia Gas was a stock that operators for the early rise found it easy to put up and it was advanced over two points but eased of toward the close. Warner Brothers pictures made a new high in early trading but lost part of its gain later, although continuing to meet with good support.

Leading industrials, such as General Electric, Gold Dust, Colorado Fuel and Iron, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck and active speculative issues such as Radio were subjected to profit-taking and declined from fractions to over a point.

Rail stocks were fairly firm with most of the standard paying carriers showing fractional gains early only to ease off a bit later. Oils showed a similar trend. The motors drifted lower on dull trading. Goodrich Rubber, however, held up, closing at 75⅝, an advance of 1⅛.

United States Steel was on moderate supply and closed a fraction lower but most of the coppers continued to hold firm.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF NEW YORK MARKET

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, July 20.—The stock market judging by its trend this week, is deadlocked—obstinately refusing to decline. Many well-informed observers had been anticipating a run of lower markets for various reasons. Money has been tight. Rediscount rates were advanced last week. The political outlook is uncertain and the public is heavily involved on the long side of the market.

But there were not sharp breaks in the market this week. Nearly every day there was some liquidation but, as a rule, buying developed quickly on the recessions with the result that prices have retained a level not far removed from what it was at the close of last week.

The declines that took place were not material, being rarely more than three points on the well-known stocks. Invariably the rebound was quick and certain, suggesting that an oversold condition had developed. The technical position of the market today is at least stronger than might have been expected in view of the adverse market factors that have cropped up of late.

Recession of Prices

When the advance in rediscount rate was announced last week there followed a two-day recession in prices. On Friday last, however, the market recovered moderately and a further slight recovery was made on Saturday. On Monday, this week, prices sold off leisurely and finally on Tuesday began to show strength—at least sufficient strength to quickly offset declines whenever they developed. This situation continued throughout the week.

Call money was much easier during the week, the rate falling on Thursday to five per cent and the rate on bankers' acceptances was advanced.

General Motors and Montgomery Ward are two of the market leaders this week, with standing bear pressure whenever it developed. Gains were also made by steel stocks, Chrysler, R. H. Macey, and some of the airplane stocks, notably Wright Aero. The strength in steel was due to the reported favorable condition of the industry. Chrysler went forward on the excellent showing that company made in the first half of 1928 as reported in its semi-annual statement typical mid-summer dullness has developed. Trading of late has been exceedingly small, particularly yesterday when the tape barely moved at times. The markets have averaged well under 1,500,000 shares for each day this week, in contrast with the 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 share markets of last April and May when the public was splurging heavily and money for speculative purposes was easy to obtain.

The concensus is that the market will continue quiet for some time. With money tight as it now is and the public staying out of the market, temporarily at least, no pronounced pickup in volume of trading is anticipated.

WRONG NAME

According to L. S. Hoon, sanitary policeman, The News was in error in Friday's issue when it carried the statement that Mrs. Doudek kept chickens on Moravia street. Mrs. Doudek did not figure in the case reported in The News. The owner of the chickens, who had her flock cut down to eight, was Mrs. Wroma of Moravia street.

NO CONTAGIONS CASES

City health department authorities stated today that no contagious cases have been reported during the past 24 hours.

NO HIGHWAY ACCIDENTS

State Highway patrolmen said today they had received no reports of any accidents in Lawrence county during Friday or Saturday until noon.

Dorsett And Faber To Attend Picnic Of Grangers At Boak Farm

Worthy State Master E. B. Dorsett and National Master L. J. Taber will be the chief speakers on the program at the inter county state grange picnic, which will take place at the farm of State Overseer J. Audley Boak on August 3, announces County Agent H. R. McCulloch.

Pomona masters in the various counties of the state are acting as local chairman for the affair, and in many cases are arranging for the county delegations to come to Mr. Boak's farm in a body. One county is planning to have at least 100 cars in their caravan. Another feature of the day will be an ox roast, sponsored by the Williard Grange of Lawrence county.

F. F. Forbes is chairman of the general publicity committee. All requests for further information concerning the picnic should be addressed to him at New Castle, Pa., R. D. 4.

ABE MARTIN — On Freedom

MAN HAS ALLUS HANKERED FER FREEDOM

Ther's never been a time in th' world's history when man wuzn' cryin' fer freedom, an' what little freedom he enjoys t'day, burdened an' restrained as he is with irksome responsibilities, hateful ordinances, distasteful amendments, out-o'-date ethics o' conduct, social customs, an' laws hamperin' ever' activity o' life, is th' result o' centuries o' struggles. Man looks considerably more presentable than he did when he first commenced t' battle, but he's made very little headway in th' freedom line. Women never seem t' worry much about freedom until around about th' 20's. They wuz content with board an' clothes, mebbe a Paisley shawl, or a pair o' garnet earin's, an' their evolution t' ther present lofty plane has been slow an' painful, an' entirely due t' economic reasons rather'n organized effort. Parents jest got tired supportin' daughters, so th' daughters jest naturally drifted into gainful occupations. That's when woman's emancipation begun t' git under way. T'day woman is on an equality with man. She votes, an' bootlegs. She murders equally as well as man. She's as intrepid as man, an' thinks nothin' o' hoppin' across th' Atlantic. She runs fer political office, drinks an' votes dry, an' is jest like a man, 'cept she'd rather sleep than eat breakfast, accepts alimony, an' don't chew t'backer. Woman is jest as free evr' way as man, an' her legs have fer greater freedom. Whether th' world's as good as it used t' be when woman stayed at home part o' th' time, or whether it jest happened that her full freedom come along jest as th' crime wave an' th' Volstead act were gittin' under way'll allus remain a question. But, returnin' t' what we're supposed t' regard as freedom, we must consider th' fact that ther are t'day more an' stronger barriers t' check our pop'lar idea o' bein' untrammeled than ever before. Our department stores are full o' detectives, our highways an' byways are patroled by policemen an' dry sleuths, an' we can't even park under a lamppost without a tail light. Professor Arthur Holmes o' th' University o' Pennsylvania, says "I recognize th' actuality o' th' new age created by youth, but I warn youth that it might with profit listen t' th' admonitions o' those who have tasted deeply o' th' experiences o' life," that is, listen t' somebuddy around seventy-five or eighty years ole. But o' course that's out o' th' question. Ther's fer greater contempt fer th' law t'day than ever before, more sneerin' at established social rules o' conduct, an' very little if any regard fer public sentiment, an more gittin' away from decent, wholesome conventionalities. Whether this dangerous trend should be checked by armed force, or whether our laws, our out grown rules o' life, an' ole disregarded ideas in regard t' th' pursuit o' happiness, are at fault an' should be revised, I'll leave fer others t' settle.

Foster's Weather Forecast

WASHINGTON, July 21—Near July 21 average temperatures are expected to take a decided drop to lower levels; week centering on 24 will average much lower temperatures than were expected just preceding; a storm wave of mild intensity is expected to cross continent during week centering on 24, traveling central transcontinental storm path. During passage of this storm center, conditions will be very favorable to the formation of hail in northern and western great central valleys and also to rather severe local storms in those sections; a cool wave will follow storm wave of 24, but is not expected to cause damaging frosts in northern country. Last storm wave of July will cross continent during week centering on 29, during a general warm wave, will be of mild force and of little general consequence. Rainfall for the continent during last half of July is expected to be much less than during first half of month and to fall principally on east half of continent. West of Rockies precipitation will be near normal and cropweather generally favorable during last half of July. Decreasing precipitation in western part of section 5 will now be favorable to the checking of wet weather insect damage; in central and eastern cotton belt and in eastern spring wheat belt, storm waves will not be sufficiently dry to kill rust, weevil and other wet weather growths. General description of expected August cropweather features will appear in next weekly bulletin.

Quarter phases of moon occur as follows: First quarter July 24, full August 1, last quarter August 8, new August 15, first quarter August 23, full August 31, last quarter September 6.

Fellow Rotarian:

When it comes to playing five hundred in a scientific manner Bob Tully is the best "super" of a steel mill there ever was. He never plays deuces wild but always plays safe. Therefore it is fitting that he should have charge of a meeting devoted to safety instruction.

Bob is superintendent of the meeting Monday and has arranged to have A. R. Masterson of the Carnegie Steel Co. safety department speak on "Safety."

Maybe we will learn how Bob bids in five hundred. Anyway we will learn how much better it is to be safe than sorry

Refuse To Permit Marathon Dances

Turbulent Followers Of Terpsichore Cannot Dance Again In Pittsburgh

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 21.—Marathon dances like other popular fads have had their day and now they are on the decline—especially in Pittsburgh where they found their most cordial reception.

The death of the dance was due to the decision of Public Safety Director James M. Clark to refuse any more dance marathon permits.

"I'm sick and tired of these dances", Clark said, "and I'll issue no more permits. I'll not see one of the dancers drop dead and be blamed for it myself."

Roaming Round With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Getting back to the cloudburst, if you don't mind an encore. Yesterday afternoon saw another chunk of it breeze through the county and this one was featuring plate glass windows. On South Mill street it ripped one entire store front out, and turning the corner onto Long avenue went down a few squares and took out two other fronts.

And just as the street cleaning force got the mess at Lutton and Mill on the way to being cleaned up, along came that second edition and spread the debris all over the street again. This morning the sewer is still erupting water and the street is a lake.

Upper Lutton street near the Franklin junior high school looks like a dirt street, while on Long avenue the storm ripped out a crescent shaped piece of the new re-surfacing. The dirt streets look as though a six H. I. shell had hit them in the dining room, and for the next few weeks lay off the street department, they'll have troubles enough of their own.

You may not notice any difference, but for the next two weeks this colyum will be missing. The roaming will be done through the mountains of Pennsylvania, leaping from crag to crag, so to speak, and where I'll be is so far from civilization that a postage stamp gets out of style carrying a letter back.

It's the little courtesies that sometimes count more than the big ones. A lot of Jimmy Fletcher's friends are mailing him birthday cards today. Jimmy has a birthday Monday and is spending it in the Army and Navy hospital in Hot Springs, Arkansas. And I sort of guess that those little cards will bring him a lot of cheer.

Now and then some citizen calls attention to Laurel Boulevard. Here's a beautiful street, one that could easily be a show street of the city if a little attention were given to it. Wide and straight, with a park effect stretching down the middle of it, it offers possibilities for civic beauty not afforded on many streets, fixed up in the shape it might be?

Just as a last mention of it, have you joined the New Castle Motor Club? There is still time to send your check in to B. N. Hanlon and be a member of the organization that has done a lot towards aiding the motorist. If the abolition of the tax on new cars were the only thing it would still be worth the price.

"Full may a flower is born to blush unseen, and waste its sweetness on the desert air." The phrase is quoted as you know, but it applies to Composing Room tenors. Some afternoon as you pass the News if you happen to hear the strains of "O Sole Mio" floating out into the roar of traffic you'll know that Jimmy Jackamo is warbling his daily dozen of sour notes. As a compositor Jimmy is clever, as a singer, just repeat the first part of this line over.

So long!

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., July 21.—Six fire companies came screaming down the street when a woman "mailed" a letter here recently. The woman, whose name was not made public, placed a letter in a fire alarm box and with a companion sauntered away. Many Interesting Events At Y. W. C. A. Camp During Week

Initiation Night Stunt Is Followed By Daily Program Of Much Zest

(Contributed.)

Monday night at the Y. W. C. A. camp at East Brook was initiation night and every thing was done to produce that spooky feeling. After being led in a grand march the girl's bravely stood the ordeal of being branded with the camp insignia.

A masquerade took place on Tuesday night and many strange illusions were seen flitting about the place. The judges selected Felix the Cat, who was Jane McClung as the best. She was awarded a bag of peanuts.

Wednesday night the camp was treated to a rodeo show at Lakewood, after which they returned to camp and prepared for a moonlight dip in the lake.

The next evening the camp girls were entertained by some very clever stunts given by the four different groups of girls. Beatrice Gonock's group was given first prize followed by Betty Coshey's and Josephine McGown. We were then favored with some "tumbling" by Miss Cooper and Miss Beal, followed by some social dancing.

Miss Cooper has aroused a great interest among the camp girls about life saving tests. The following girls are trying out for junior life saving. Margaret and Elizabeth Murphy, Dorothy Patch, Charlotte Bartlett, June Duff, Dorothy Cain, Jane McClung and Shirley Gordon.

Many girls took advantage of the basketry class this week. A number of attractive baskets were made by them.

Bandaging and resuscitation were taught in the first aid classes. The girls practiced resuscitation on one another.

We are informed that in the Red schools of Russia the pupils write in red. Over here some business men report business is so bad they are figuring in "the red".

A sufficient commentary on the human race is the astonishment that prompts it to name somebody "Honest John".
